Senate Votes Full ECA Fund; West Zones Army Rule to End; 8 Pact Nations Ask Arms Aid

Pleas to Be Put Before Congresss; Only Denmark, Norway Specific

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Eight members of the North Atlantic alliance have asked the United States for military aid and were told yesterday that their appeal would be presented to Congress.

Publication of their notes to the United States and the State Department's replies revealed they had requested help in rearming the day after the Atlantic Pact was signed here. Only two—Norway and Denmark—specified the nature and extent of their needs and these were not revealed by the State Department.

Neither did the department offer any estimate of the probable cost of rearming western Europe. All parties to the exchange of notes stressed the reciprocal nature of the pact and the obligation of each nation to help itself to the limit of its abilities.

Five of the nations wrapped up their appeal in one document, which spoke for all of them. These were Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg which signed the Brussels Treaty of mutual assistance March 17, 1948.

Their action in appealing not as individual nations but as an alliance marked a new departure in diplomacy

Coincident with announcement of the appeals for military aid from the eight pact signatories, it was reported from The Hague that the defense ministers of the five countries had approved a plan for defense of western Europe. While no details were made public, the ministers announced they had agreed on the contribution of each country in allocation of forces and in production of armaments.

Italy, the eighth country whose appeal was published yesterday, asserted its responsibility to the other members of the alliance and promised:

"That in turn Italy is ready to provide to members of the Atlantic Pact such reciprocal assistance as it can reasonably be expected to contribute, consistent with its geographic location and resources and in the form in which it can most effectively furnish such assistance."

All the powers stressed that economic recovery must have priority over military preparation in the use of their resources and that local funds for defense must come

Big 3 Agree on Civilian Control Of Projected German Republic

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Big Three agreement on an end to military control of western Germany as soon as a German Federal Republic can be established there under civilian supervision of the three allies, was announced here yesterday.

The United States, Great Britain and France declared in a joint communique that they have reached "complete agreement" for the first time on basic German policy.

Merger of the present British and American zones—Bizonia—with the French zone, is expected to take place about the same time the new German Republic is created—possibly by midsummer—and an Allied high commission will then replace the present military regime.

Allied troops would continue in the area under the agreement, although the size of the central military staff would be scaled down considerably.

While the proposed moves have been expected to widen greatly the split between the western allies and Russia—the Soviets having already denounced a western German state as a violation of the Potsdam Agreement—Secretary of State Dean Acheson said the allied agreement may actually improve chances of a peaceful settlement with Russia.

The combination of the Marshall Plan and the North Atlantic Treaty, he told a news conference, has wrought a great change in the attitude of all Europe, climaxed by the Big Three accord on Germany.

This agreement, he said, replaces the existing vacuum of weakness with strength, and noted that he had previously declared that once that vacuum is filled by allied unity there is an increasing opportunity of presenting a firm front for resolving differences with Russian and Soviet controlled eastern Germany.

He emphasized, however, that the United States is still insistent on lifting of the year-old land blockade of Berlin before there can be basic German negotiations.

Major points of the German agreements announced by Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman are:

1. An occupation statute, "in a new and simpler form," setting out the powers which the Big Three will reserve to themselves in western Germany, has been forwarded to the German Parliamentary Council at Bonn, in the Rhineland.

At Bonn, delegates from the Western German states have been meeting for months, amid marked disagreement, in an effort to draw up a constitution which could operate under powers authorized by the western Allies.

2. The occupation statute "aims to permit the German people to exercise democratic self-govern-

15-Month Extension Is Passed, 70 to 10; House Meets Today To Speed Measure

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

The Senate yesterday passed the full $5,580,000,000 authorization for another 15 months of European recovery by a 10-to-1 vote of 70 to 7.

Passage came in a surprise burst of speed following 13 days of short-tempered argument that carried ECA past its April 2 deadline and left it without authority to place new orders.

House leaders, who have waited two weeks for the Senate to act, immediately scheduled a rare Saturday session. Today's House session will simply debate the bill, clearing the way for final voting Monday or Tuesday.

Exceeds Expectations

The Senate's overwhelming vote, picking up the approval of many who had tried to slash the program, exceeded Administration expectations.

Twenty-six Republicans and 44 Democrats voted "Aye." Only one Democrat voted with six Republicans against it.

Here are the seven who voted "No": Senators Ellender (D., La.) and Butler (Nebr.), Capehart (Ind.), Jenner (Ind.), Kem (Mo.), Langer (N. Dak.) and Wherry (Nebr.), Republicans.

The bill authorizes $1,150,000,000 in Marshall Plan aid for the period April through June, 1949, and $4,280,000,000 for the fiscal year 1949-50. In addition, it authorizes $150,000,000 in contracting authority.

To Press for Review

Although the Senate authorized the full amount the ECA asked, GOP critics announced they will press for a full-dress review in the Appropriation committees and a possible slash there.

The Senate batted down by large margins a long string of amendments restricting the program, ranging from a flat ban on use of funds for nationalization of European industries to denial of aid for the further dismantling of German plants.

Russell's Yen for Grits Jars ECA Harmony

By The Associated Press

The Senate voted 44 to 33 yesterday to require the ECA to ship 15 per cent of the corn for Europe in the form of hominy grits, flour or meal.

But the provision was not inserted without a protest from Georgia's Senator Russell.

"If this amendment causes any shortage of hominy grits in the South, it will be outrageous," he declared. Russell disclosed a deplorable situation in Washington. He said he had tried to get hominy grits for breakfast here—with no success.

Before the vote, Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) wanted to know: "There is no inference that this amendment includes gravy?" No, he was assured by Senator Gillette (D., Iowa), author of the amendment.

House Votes D. C. Rent Compromise

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

The House late yesterday approved a compromise District rent control extension bill, but a fight on the measure will come in the Senate early next week.

The bill would extend District rent control in modified form to June 30, 1950.

House approval for the bill was given by a voice vote at 5:32 p.m., after the compromise was recommended at a morning meeting of a joint House-Senate conference committee.

The conference agreed to drop from the bill the Senate amendment sponsored by Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.) to change the present system of rent adjustments so that they would be based on the idea of insuring landlords a "fair net operating income."

By dropping McCarthy's amendment on rent adjustment, the conference committee recommended and the House agreed to continue the present basis for adjusting rents. The present system has been based on adjusting for actual changes in operation costs of housing accommodations. Rent levels have been geared to the idea of granting comparable prices for comparable housing in comparable neighborhoods.

House action also indorsed a conference recommendation to accept Senator McCarthy's proposal to drop the criminal penalties from the enforcement provisions of the present District rent law.

While conceding that removal of the criminal penalties would weaken the local control law, District Rent Administrator Robert F. Cogswell had aimed his main recommendation at removal of the "fair net operating income" feature.

Early Senate Action Due

Representative Oren Harris (D., Ark.) presented the compromise bill for House action.

Senate District Chairman J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.), a member of the conference group, pointed out the compromise plan will have right-of-way for Senate action. He said he would call it up for final action at the first opportunity.

Senator McCarthy, also a member of the conference group,

Use of Freaks in Rescue Is Given Up, Digging Is Begun

San Marino, Calif., April 8 (AP).—Rescue squads dug desperately tonight to reach 3½-year-old Kathy Fiscus, trapped underground somewhere along the length of a 120-foot vertical pipe.

Four hours after the child slipped into the pipe at play, police and Fire Department workers reported they were down nearly 40 feet. They believed from the child's feeble cries earlier that she was at about the 80 or 100-foot mark.

The pipe is only 14 inches in diameter.

Steam shovels, bulldozers and posthole diggers were being used. A call was issued for a midget to climb down into the metal-casing pipe, but the idea was discarded, police said.

A Fire Department squad pumped air into the pipe, hoping to keep it clear for the child to breathe.

A rope was lowered down the pipe and for awhile officers said they felt some pressure at the other end. They heard a scream, then all was quiet.

Advice was shouted down to the child. Could she tie a rope around her waist? No reply.

Kathy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David H. Fiscus, were among hundreds watching the rescue attempts. The girl fell into the pipe about 5 p.m. PST (8 p.m. EST). Her cries ceased about an hour later.

Authorities had discarded the idea of lowering a midget or a circus thin man down the pipe because they feared cutting off the oxygen supply to the girl. Then, too, there was the danger of a second person being trapped in the narrow tube.

Digging the pipe out in sections or whole appeared to be the solu-

Second Degree Plea Denied in Hotel Slaying

Crispin Perez, 29, accused of murdering a man at the Ambassador Hotel, was denied a plea of second-degree murder yesterday by Judge Edward M. Curran.

Perez is charged with the brutal robbery - slaying of Charles J. Hines, 48, of Madison, Wis., in the latter's hotel room last November.

The request that Perez, former part-time bartender, be allowed to plead guilty to the lesser charge was made by his attorney, Irvin Goldstein, with the approval of Assistant United States Attorney William Hitz.

However, Judge Curran said he recalled the slaying as a very brutal one and would not countenance such an agreement. His ruling meant that Perez must face trial for first-degree murder.

A motion to suppress evidence will be argued April 18 and the murder trial is to begin in District Court April 25.

Hitz told the court yesterday that the indictment against Perez is in two counts.

"The first count," he said, "charges first-degree murder by premeditation. Factually, the evidence of premeditation is not strong."

He said that two psychiatrists at St. Elizabeths Hospital found Perez to be sane but reported there was some doubt as to his capacity to premeditate.

"For these reasons," said Hitz, "the Government will accept under this count a plea of guilty to second-degree murder."

Then Hitz explained that the second count of the indictment charges Perez with first-degree murder in the commission of a robbery. Perez, he said, had in his possession, when arrested, a ring belonging to the dead man. But it was not the usual robbery killing, he added.

White Blood Cells Isolated, Harvard Scientist Announces

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

Successful isolation and preservation of white blood cells from donors' blood was announced here yesterday by Dr. Lewis K. Diamond, Harvard scientist.

The feat is significant in that it may open up a new field of blood therapy for those ills accompanied by white cell deficiency, he said. Heretofore, white cells were lost or destroyed in the receiving bottle within 5 to 24 hours.

White cell deficiency ills include some leukemias; danger states which sometimes accompany sulfa drug treatments; residual effects of abusive use of sleeping powders, and transitory stages of measles, influenza, typhoid fever, malaria, smallpox and other infectious diseases.

"We are on the threshold of great advances in the use of blood and blood derivatives which may be as important to the next generation as the sulfonamides are to this generation," he told anesthesiologists in assembly here.

He spoke at a second-day session of joint scientific meetings of the American Society of Anesthesiologists and its Southeastern Section, at Hotel Statler.

Dr. Diamond disclosed that

MIT Professor Named as Red Party Leader

New York, April 8 (AP).—A "voluntary worker" for the FBI in the Communist Party today named a Massachusetts Institute of Technology professor as a discussion leader in a party professional group.

However, the professor, Dirk J. Struik, declared at Cambridge "I am not a Communist" but a "Marxist in the broadest sense."

The witness, Herbert A. Philbrick, 33-year-old advertising man, said Struik attended meetings of the professional group in the Boston area and summed up its studies of Lenin's "State and Revolution."

He was testifying at the Federal Court conspiracy trial of 11 leaders of the American Communist Party. They are accused of conspiring to advocate violent overthrow of the United States Government.

Philbrick said the professional group was taught it was essential to overturn the United States Government by force and set up a dictatorship of the workers. Struik asserted he had never advocated overthrow of the Government.

The advertising man, who lives at Melrose, Mass., also told the jury about clandestine contacts with Government agents to tip them off to party moves and the web of precautions spun to hide his role from party officials and members.

He said the FBI paid all his expenses, including his party dues and rental charges on a dictating machine used for his reports. But he asserted he received no pay and did his undercover job voluntarily.

Details about Philbrick's FBI connections came out on cross-examination. He named Struik as a party figure before finishing his direct testimony for the Government.

The MIT professor, a mathematician, said Philbrick "put words in my mouth I never said" and

2 Convictions In Anti-Fascist Case Reversed

The United States Court of Appeals yesterday reversed the conviction of two women who had been sentenced for contempt of Congress for failing to deliver records of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee.

The point resulting in the upset was failure of the trial judge to allow the District Court jury to decide whether a quorum of the House Committee on Un-American Activities was present April 4, 1946, when the alleged default was made.

The defendants who won the reversal are Mrs. Ernestina G. Fleischman and Miss Helen R. Bryan, officers in the "Anti-Fascist" group.

The effect of the decision is to remand the cases to District Court for retrial in accord with the findings of the Appeals Court unless the Government should seek a Supreme Court review.

The Appeals Court verdict was rendered by Judge Henry W. Edgerton, with a partial concurrence of opinion by Judge James M. Proctor. Judge E. Barrett Prettyman dissented.

Judge Edgerton said it was a disputed question whether the required five-man quorum of the Un-American Activities Committee had been present and that it was up to the jury to decide this point.

"Default is, of course, failure to comply with the summons. Appellant, summoned to produce records before the congressional committee, could not comply with the summons unless the committee met . . . Unless the appellant could comply with the summons she could not be guilty of willfully making default," Judge Edgerton stated.

Speaking for himself only, Judge Edgerton said that in the Fleischman case, there was no evidence that non-production of the records, which were not in her care, re-

Normal Life Doubled

Hormone-Treated Blossoms Still Putting on Good Show

Washington and its tourists will have another chance this weekend to enjoy the cherry blossoms around the Tidal Basin—thanks to the hormone treatment given the blossoms about 10 days ago.

Although some of the blossoms were destroyed by rain during the past week, most of the trees are still in heavy bloom, Edward C. Kelly, of National Capital Parks, said yesterday.

The hormone application has just about doubled the life of the blossoms, which in previous years was from 5 to 7 days, Kelly said.

Kelly also suggested that tourists might enjoy the crabapple blossoms on Colombia Island, at the Pentagon and in Anacostia Park, the redbud along Mount Vernon Highway, and the blossoms in the south grounds of the White House.

Meanwhile, Washington businessmen, who realized 625 million dollars in business from a quarter million tourists during the Cherry Blossom Festival weekend, according to the Greater National Capital Committee, are preparing for several more weekends of heavy trade from out-of-towners.

The good condition of the cherry blossoms this weekend, plus opening of the double cherry blossoms next week, followed by the Easter weekend, should bring many more tourists here, it was pointed out.

Look Into Wallet Called Big Factor In Any 'New Look'

Los Angeles, April 8 (U.P.).—There'll be no more new looks in clothes for American women, an economist said today, until American men get a new look in their wallets.

A. W. Zelomek, head of a New York statistical service, said that fashions this year would have a "down-to-earth" look. That's all 1949 husbands can afford.

"Fashions have necessarily settled down," he said. "I don't think they'll be able to take off again on another major flight of fancy, such as another 'new look,' until economic conditions change."

Zelomek said a statistician could predict the styles by the state of the economy.

Text of 3 Nations' Accord on Germany

The text of the British-French-United States statement on Germany follows:

THE FOREIGN Ministers of the United States, United Kingdom and France have discussed in Washington the whole range of issues now pending in connection with Germany and have arrived at complete agreement. The text of an occupation statute in a new and simpler form has been approved and is being transmitted to the German Parliamentary Council at Bonn. Agreement was reached on the basic principles to govern the exercise of Allied powers and responsibilities and also the tri-partite Allied control machinery. The Foreign Ministers confirmed and approved agreements on the subject of plant dismantling, prohibited and restricted industries, and the establishment of an international Ruhr authority, all of which were recently negotiated in London.

The occupation statute will define the powers to be retained by the occupation authorities upon the establishment of the German federal republic and set forth basic procedure for the operation of Allied supervision. Subject only to the limitations of the statute, the German federal state and the participating laender will have full legislative, executive and judicial powers, in accordance with the basic law and with their respective constitutions. The statute aims to permit the German people to exercise democratic self-government. Provision is made for a review of the terms of the statute after a year in force.

WITH THE establishment of the German federal republic there will be a marked change in the organization to carry out occupation responsibilities. Military government as such will be terminated and the functions of the Allied authorities will become mainly supervisory. Each of the Allied establishments in Germany will come under the direction of a high commissioner, aside from the occupation forces which will remain headed by military commanders, the three high commissioners together will constitute an Allied high commission which will be the supreme Allied agency of control. In order to permit the German federal republic to exercise increased responsibility for domestic affairs and to reduce the burden of occupation costs, staff personnel shall be kept to a minimum.

The German government authorities will be at liberty to take administrative and legislative action and such action will have validity if not disapproved by Allied authorities. There will be certain limited fields in which the Allies will reserve the right to take direct action themselves, or to direct German authorities to take action. However, these fields will be limited, and aside from security matters the exercise of direct powers by the Allies is regarded in many instances as self-liquidating in nature.

It was agreed that a major offensive of the three Allied governments was to encourage and facilitate the closest integration, on a mutually beneficial basis, of the German people under a democratic federal state within the framework of a European association. In this connection it is understood that the German federal republic will negotiate a separate bilateral ECA agreement with the United States and should participate as a full member in the organization for European economic cooperation, thus becoming a responsibile partner in the European recovery program.

Big 3 Agree on Germany

ment," allowing the German Republic and participating states "full legislative, executive and judicial powers . . ."

No disclosure was made in the communique as to the amount of federal vs. state power the constitution will be permitted to establish. This is the key issue in dispute.

3. With establishment of the republic, "military government as such will be terminated and the functions of the Allied authorities will become mainly supervisory."

Military commanders would remain in the occupation area only as troop leaders.

3-Man Commission

4. Each of the three zones will then come under direction of a high commissioners. Together, the commissioners will constitute a three-man Allied high commission "which will be the supreme Allied agency of control."

(French Minister Schuman told a news conference that in addition, in each state there will be an official representing the Allied nation controlling that zone. Aiding him, in an advisory capacity, will be one official from each of the other two nations of the tripartite agreement.)

5. "The German government authorities will be at liberty to take administrative and legislative action and such action will have validity if not disapproved by Allied authorities."

Accord Formula Set Up

(Primary powers retained by the occupying nations will concern security and basic law, and a formula has been established to resolve differences over lesser points if the Allies fail to agree unanimously.)

6. A major objective of the Allies is to establish the "closest integration" of a democratic western German state "within the framework of a European association." To aid this process, the German republic will be permitted to participate as such in the Organization for European Economic Cooperation.

At present, the Bizone and the French zone are represented by Allied officials on the OEEC, which is the European agency for administering recovery funds. A further step in enlisting western Germany in the "European association" is entrance into the proposed Council of Europe, and her participation in this group reportedly has been approved.

Approve Ruhr Decision

In their communique, the Big Three gave formal approval to earlier tentative agreements to establish an International Authority for the Ruhr—with the Big Three, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg controlling distribution of Ruhr products.

Also approved were plans for retaining in Germany a number of industrial plants originally scheduled to be dismantled for reparation payments, plus yet undisclosed agreements listing types of industries to be prohibited or restricted in the control area.

The plants to be retained are believed to involve 155 industries, while the industrial bans will affect industries which can be used for war preparation. Under another agreement, not referred to yesterday, the tonnage limit on German ship construction would be raised from 1500-ton ships to 6000-ton vessels, to permit development of coastwise shipping to aid Germany's recovery.

End of Momentous Week

British and Foreign Secretary Bevin declared that the German agreement marked the end of a "most momentous week," which began Monday with the signing of the North Atlantic Treaty.

At a hurried press conference early yesterday, before he left here by train to make-last-minute connections with the London-bound Maurentania, which sailed from New York yesterday, he declared:

"We hace reached the stage where we can take further steps and if the Germans are wise, they will respond. For they have it on their conscience that they brought war twice on the world; yet the (Allied) governments are really trying to help them create a democratic Germany with which those of us who live in western Europe and the rest of the world can live in confidence and peace."

Schuman, beaming approval at a press conference he held at the chancery of the French Embassy before taking a 2 p. m. train for New York to join the French delegation at the United Nations, declared:

"It is certain that what we have agreed to today could not have been agreed to a year ago by the French government. But . . . the situation has changed."

Believed Satisfied

The French, throughout prolonged negotiations on German policy, have expressed great concern that international security would be endangered by permitting establishment of a German government with more than highly limited authority.

The present agreement, however, is believed to have satisfied French demands on retaining a veto over all questions of security.

Schuman said that under the veto formula—which has not been officially disclosed—while some of the questions of German control which may arise "must be settled unanimously," that "they are not numerous and most of them must be settled by a majority" vote of the Big Three representatives.

Issues which must be resolved unanimously, he said, are those affecting amendment of the proposed western German constitution demobilization; security; reparations and number of occupation troops.

The three-power agreement, said Schuman, does not close the door to Russian participation in a united Germany, and is "not incompatible for the four nations . . . we have prepared the way for four-power control and it is now up to Russia to say if she agrees."

Asked what decision had been reached regarding French port rights at Kehl, on the German side of the Rhine opposite Strasbourg, Schuman said there will be a joint Franco-German access to the port pending a final settlement by peace treaty.

21-Day Waiting Period

Within the proposed tripartite zone of Germany, it is believed that where the three allies fail to agree on issues which do not require unanimous action, there will be a 21-day waiting period before any decision becomes effective.

If an objection is registered, an additional 30-day waiting period reportedly will permit the objecting representative to consult with his government and if there is still no accord, the decisions would then go into effect under certain conditions.

Details of this agreement, plus details of all the other proposals announced, will be made available as soon as possible, Acheson said yesterday. Many of the issues, however, still require extensive work, which will be carried on here and in London. As yet there has been no disclosure, for example, of the extent of American control over expenditures in the merged area.

Viewed as Remarkable

Secretary Acheson said he believed that the agreements which had been accomplished in the past two days here with Bevin and Schuman were truly remarkable in view of the long list of issues under negotiation for months in London and Berlin.

Asked when the western German government could become operable, he noted that a long chain of events lies in store, starting with approval of the constitution by the Parliamentary Council at Bonn—about which he expressed optimism—followed by approval by the three allies, the German states and the German electorate.

Acheson commended the work accomplished in London by Ambassador Lewis A. Douglas and his staff there, and in a separate statement, Acheson, Bevin and Schuman praised the work of Lieut. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, British Lieut. Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, and French Gen. Pierre Josep Koenig as military governors of the occupation zones.

General Clay has long sought to retire from his arduous role in Germany, but has acceded to repeated requests that he stay on until a firm policy for western Germany can be established.

House Passes $43,000,000 For Airlift

The House yesterday passed by voice vote a $671,047,172 deficiency appropriations bill to keep a score of Government agencies running the rest of this fiscal year, including 43 million dollars for full-scale operations of the Berlin airlift.

The bill also grants 40 million dollars in cash and 270 million dollars in contract authority to enable the Administration to continue stockpiling strategic war materials.

The House was told by its Appropriations Committee that the Berlin airlift is costing the United States more than 153 million dollars this year. All but the 43 million dollars voted by the House will come out of the regular operating funds of the Air Force.

The chamber defeated a series of Republican-sponsored amendments, one of which would have killed a $400,000 item covering the cost of electricity for air conditioning Government offices during the summer.

The Atomic Energy Commission was given 110 million dollars to pay for contract authority it was given last year. The commission asked for the money because "progress on construction projects has been better than was foreseen."

The Postoffice Department was given $205,702,000 for pay increases and mounting deficits on mail.

Representative Richard B. Wigglesworth (R., Mass.) told the House its action on appropriation bills thus far already has increased next year's Government costs by more than $1,241,000,000. He reached this figure by comparing the seven big spending bills passed so far this year with the same measures passed last year.

Italy Takes Long Steps in Recovery

Rome, April 8 (NYHT).—Italy's recovery is progressing so well with the help of the Marshall Plan that it may reach its goal of a balanced budget even before 1952, Giuseppe Pella, Minister of the Treasury, said tonight in his annual report to Parliament.

The Italian deficit will be 290 million dollars in the current financial years, compared with $1,300,000,000 last year. The new financial years starting this summer will show a further improvement, Pella said. The improvement was obtained in large part by raising the prices for transportation, postage stamps and telephones.

But Pella said the average Italian income is only $200 a year, 20 per cent below prewar.

Italy's exports rose 50 per cent in 1948 and industrial activity increased 17 per cent, bringing production up to 90 per cent of prewar.

Senate May Get Treaty Monday

The White House announced yesterday that President Truman will send the North Atlantic defense treaty to the Senate early next week—probably Monday.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said the treaty reached the White House yesterday morning. He said it will be sent to the Senate with a "short accompanying message" by the President Monday or Tuesday.

West Rules on Reparations

London, April 8 (AP).—German assets in the U.S., British and French occupation zones of Austria will not be used as reparations, the Western powers announced today. They asked for a clarification of Russia's claims.

The Western idea is to end German ownership of property in Austria but leave it in the Austrian economy.

This was another step in the effort to write an Austrian independent treaty. It was taken at a four-power conference of Deputy Foreign Ministers. Then the deputies recessed until April 25. They have held 152 meetings.

Greeks Still Fighting

Athens, April 8 (AP).—Fighting continues heavy in the Grammos Mountains of northwest Greece, a government communique said today.

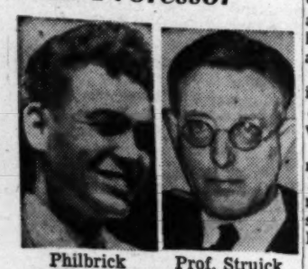
Carr Given 6 Years In Passport Case

Witness Accuses MIT Professor



Philbrick Prof. Struick

Ottawa, April 8 (U.P.).—Sam Carr, 43-year-old organizer for the Canadian Communist Party, was sentenced to six years in prison today after his conviction on charges that he obtained a forged passport for a Soviet spy.

The Russian-born Carr, arrested in New York by the FBI last January, too the sentence calmly. He was expected to appeal.

The jury deliberated only 90 minutes after Judge A. G. McDougall told the members they must acquit Carr if they had the slightest doubt about his guilt. Maximum penalty was seven years.

The specific charge against Carr was that he obtained a forged passport for Ignacy Witczak, a Soviet agent who has disappeared after spending wartime years in Los Angeles, where he gathered military information for Russia.

MIT Professor Named as Red asserted "never at any time nor in any form have I ever advocated the overthrow of the Government."

"Though I myself have avoided organizational contacts with the Communist Party, I maintain it is a God-given right of any citizen to join the Communist Party as well as any other party," Struik said.

Philbrick, surprise Government witness who is closely guarded by FBI men as he enters and leaves the Federal courthouse, testified that Special Agents Lawrence Healy and Dick Dow were his contacts in the bureau during the nine years he belonged to the Communist Party or its affiliates.

Throughout this period, he said, he made typewritten, dictated or oral reports to the United States security agency.

He told of sidling up to Healy at a main intersection in Cambridge to give him one of the reports.

Philbrick said the party professional group of which he was a member met at the Cambridge home of a party member known to him only as Peg. He had testified earlier that those in the group used only their first names and split into small units for security reasons.

At these meetings certain passages from Lenin's book, which told of the necessity for smashing the present government, were stressed, the witness said.

One such passage, he testified, stated the "working class cannot simply lay hold of the state machinery and wield it for its own use, but must shatter, break up, blow up, the whole state machinery."

The witness said teachers at the sessions included a group leader named Martha, "a girl named Helen," "Jackie," "Dick," "Henry," and "Butch."

Philbrick said the doctrines of violent revolution were taught at meetings of party clubs in Malden, Wakefield and Melrose, three communities in the Boston area, as well as the professional group.

Philbrick said on cross-examination that his present job is as assistant advertising director for a New England chain of motion picture houses.

Marshall Plan Attacks Aid Reds, ADA Charges

Chicago, April 8 (U.P.).—The Americans for Democratic Action charged today that Republican efforts to slash Marshall Plan funds in Congress have allowed the Communists to "take heart."

The ADA's national board said the congressional fight gave Communists a picture "they view as the impotence of democratic government in the face of pressing problems at home and abroad."

The board also charged that Old Guard Republicans and Southern Congressmen have ganged up "in a desperate effort to rewrite the election returns."

It issued a statement as some 600 delegates met in opening sessions of the ADA's national convention.

11 Germans Die as Gale Hits Berlin

Berlin, April 8 (AP).—Eleven Germans were killed today in a gale which whipped across Berlin and northwestern Germany, toppling many bomb-gutted buildings.

The wind reached a velocity of 75 miles an hour.

The Russians took potatoes and brown coal off ration in eastern Berlin today, and Germans with enough money flocked to special stores to stock up.

American officials said the move was part of a Russian attempt to win over the Germans by putting up a show of giving them something.

Mauna Loa Stirring With Blasts and Lava

Honolulu, April 8 (U.P.).—Mauna Loa began erupting again today, almost three months to the day after the ancient volcano blew its top in its most spectacular display of pyrotechnics in three decades.

A fiery display of lava flows and explosions were reported breaking out in the huge crater on the Island of Hawaii where last January 6 a 15-mile long stream of molten rock threatened coastal villages.

'Smelling' Movies Near, Says Soviet

Bucharest, Romania, April 8 (AP). The Soviet film industry is very near to producing smelling pictures, Soviet Film Director Grigori Alexandrov told a Bucharest audience tonight.

Just as the talkies emerged from a dream 20 years ago, so will the smellies, he said, adding:

"We want to look through the screen as through a window. We want to hear, to see, but also to smell the breeze of the sea, the perfume of flowers and of green pastures."

China Ultimatum Modified by Reds

Thirtieth Veto

Reds Block South Korea From U. N.

Lake Success, April 8 (AP).—Russia vetoed southern Korea's bid for U. N. membership today.

It was the thirtieth Soviet veto in the Security Council and the fourteenth time Russia has used the veto to bar a membership applicant.

Jacob A. Malik, a Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister said the Far Eastern republic is a military police state.

The vote was 9 to 2.

The Soviet Ukraine was the other dissenter.

Israel's bid for United Nations membership was put up to the General Assembly today by its 14-member steering committee by a 9 to 3 vote. Israeli backers predicted early approval, perhaps next week.

Lebanon, Iran and Britain opposed the move. Belgium and Australia abstained.

Nanking, April 3 (AP).—Semi-official Chinese quarters tonight said the Communists had slightly modified their surrender ultimatum, leaving a possible loophole for further negotiations.

The Communists had demanded that the government arrange surrender of its armies not later than next Tuesday or the Reds would cross the Yangtze River, renewing full-scale civil war.

The modification, according to usually reliable sources, was a demand that the government satisfactorily declare by Tuesday its attitude towards the Reds' original peace terms of last January. These terms would amount to outright surrender, but the question of what would be a "satisfactory" declaration opened the possibility of further talk.

This development came after Acting President Li Tsung-jen offered to be "burned in oil or dismembered" if that would help end the war. At the same time, Gen. Pai Chung-hsi, government commander from Red-threatened Hankow, conferred in Nanking on future action.

Li's offer was made in a telegram to Motze-tung, Chinese Communist leader.

Li reportedly had rejected the ultimatum from the Communists earlier this week.

Premier Ho Ying-chin returned to Nanking by air from Canton late in the day. Before leaving Canton he told members of the legislative and control Yuns that he would not surrender to the Communists.

8 Nations Ask Military Aid

from "noninflationary sources."

Secretary of State Dean Acheson, replying to the four notes, asked for detailed information of their needs from the countries which have not already supplied this data. He promised that Congress would be asked for assistance, both in money and military equipment, on the basis of over-all needs.

Cannot Figure Cost Now

And in a statement accompanying the notes Acheson said:

"I cannot at this time give a figure, a range of figures, or an informed guess, of what the cost of the program will be for either the North Atlantic Pact countries or for other areas. That matter is now being considered jointly with the Bureau of the Budget and will be submitted to the President.

"When the President has made his review I will then be in a position to make the figure known to the Congress and the people of the United States."

When it became known Thursday night that the notes would be released yesterday morning, Chairman Connally (D., Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee raised his voice in protest. When he was assured no figures would be given which might endanger enactment of the European Recovery bill now before the Senate, he relented.

Treaty With Spain Unlikely

At a news conference yesterday afternoon Acheson scotched the probability of a separate arms treaty with Spain. A reporter recalled earlier reports that Generalissimo Francisco Franco had suggested such a pact and asked if there was "any reason why the United States should not enter into a separate military treaty with Spain.

Acheson said he believed he could think up some. He then added that he would say such a treaty was not a lively possibility at this time.

In answer to another question, Acheson said the North Atlantic Pact was in strict conformity with the provisions of the peace treaty with Italy.

Stresses Defensive Nature

In his statement accompanying the Atlantic Pact requests, Acheson emphasized the defensive nature of the alliance and its fundamental policy of mutual assistance. He also made it clear that the arms requests were not "a product of the Pact," which is not yet even in effect since it has not been ratified.

"The military assistance program, like the Atlantic Pact," said Acheson, "is part of a policy which is entirely defensive in its scope. It could not be otherwise. Aggression is contrary to the basic traditions, instincts and fundamental policies of the nations involved.

"There can be no doubt that the Atlantic Pact countries have much to lose and nothing to gain from war. By the very fact of our democratic systems of government, we can never conspire to undertake aggressive action. The public discussions which will take place concerning the North Atlantic Pact and the proposed military assistance program are clear guarantees that we are not preparing for an aggressive war."

Acheson insisted that "these requests and our replies . . . in no sense represent a price tag to be placed upon the pact." This Nation's decision to provide assistance will present, he said, "a careful, honest judgment of an effective means by which we can contribute to the collective defense of the North Atlantic area." The terms of the requests, he continued:

"All emphasize certain basic principles of vital importance in assuring the United States that our assistance will yield maximum benefits to us as well as to the recipients. They all recognize that economic recovery must be given first priority . . . that each country must undertake to do what it can to help itself and help the other parties of the pact . . . (and) the importance of building up at this time a modest program of arms production over and above what had been contemplated in their budgets for this year, so undertaken as not to impede the progress of the European Recovery Program."

Requests for arms aid are expected later from the remaining countries in the North Atlantic Pact: Canada, Portugal and Iceland.

Fighting Flares As Karens Fail To Yield Insein

Rangoon, Burma, April 8 (AP).—Burma's civil war flared up with new fury tonight on the approaches to Rangoon after Karen rebels in Insein failed to surrender as scheduled.

For nine hours after the surrender deadline, Burmese commanders waited in vain for some word from the Karens. Then government planes and artillery opened up again against the insurgents' lines in Insein, 10 miles north of Rangoon. The fighting ended a three-day cease-fire there.

While the government's attention was directed on Insein, a combined force of Karens and Communists seized Twante, a canal town 15 miles southwest of Rangoon.

Burmese units and members of the white band of the People's Volunteer Organization, fighting on the side of the government, gained control of Henzada, an important rice center on the Irrawaddy river.

11-1 Vote Sends Indonesia Case To Assembly

Lake Success, April 8 (AP).—The 14-nation steering committee voted today to place the Dutch-Indonesian case before the U. N. Assembly.

The vote was 11 to 1 on a joint Australian-Indian request for debate in the full 58-nation Assembly. Belgium voted against the proposal. Britain and France abstained.

Before the vote, Britain, France, China and Belgium urged that the Assembly defer discussion of the question until preliminary talks in Batavia have a chance to get under way between Dutch and Indonesian leaders.

A move to put the case before the Assembly but defer debate for a time was defeated 9 to 4, with the United States abstaining. Britain, Canada, France and Belgium supported this move.

Only 6 to Die For Massacre

Frankfurt, Germany, April 8 (AP).—Only 6 of the 43 Germans sentenced to death in 1946 for the Malmedy massacre will actually go to the gallows.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay completed today the last of his numerous reviews of the disputed mass trial in which 73 S. S. (Elite Guard) troops were convicted by a United States war crimes court.

The American military governor confirmed the death sentence of S. S. Col. Joachim Peiper, who gave the order which led to the shooting of about 750 American prisoners and 150 Belgian civilians at Malmedy during the Battle of the Bulge in December, 1944.

He commuted the death sentence of S. S. Capt. Georg Preuss to life imprisonment on the possibility that the evidence convicting him might have been obtained by duress.

This left the final count at: Six under death sentence. 20 serving life terms, 34 serving shorter prison terms, 13 convictions quashed.

The court acquitted only one of the original 74 defendants. Army reviewing authorities, however, quashed 13 convictions on the ground of insufficient evidence. All but a dozen of the death sentences also were reduced by routine Army review.

Then came a series of protests and charges which inspired two official investigations. The investigators reported indications Army agents had used improper methods to obtain some evidence.

Banker Crowe Indicted

New York, April 8 (AP).—Banker Richard Crowe, accused of filching $883,660 from a National City Bank branch, today was indicted on charges making him liable to a maximum of 45 years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

Senate Votes ECA Funds

the Administration were adopted, however:

1. By Senator Guy M. Gillette (D., Iowa) requiring that 15 per cent of the recovery corn shipments must be in the form of meal, grits and other processed corn products produced here. Adopted 44 to 35.

2. By Senator Pat McCarran (D., Nev.) making available American dollars for American Maritime insurance so American companies can bid on insurance of shipments. Recipient countries now handle this insurance from local currencies. Adopted, 59 to 22.

The Administration hopes to either modify or erase both amendments in conference with the House.

ECA Administrator Paul G. Hoffman and Howard Bruce, his deputy, congratulated Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Tom Connally (D., Tex.), who floor-managed the bill.

"We are very delighted, particularly with the 70-to-7 vote," Hoffman said. "When that news reaches Europe it will further add to the morale of the people."

The Senate sped through nearly a dozen amendments in the swiftest voting sprint since it pounded down two efforts to slash the bill a week ago.

By 5 p. m., there was only one amendment left—directing ECA, to the maximum extent consistent with the purposes of the act, to enable American small business to compete with big business for machinery and other ECA orders. Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.), sponsor of the amendment, had tangled with Connally throughout the debate, and the scene appeared set for another clash.

But Morse made only a brief speech. Then he withdrew his amendment, requesting Connally to try to work out a small business amendment, using the previously adopted Wherry amendments as a basis.

Connally agreed to "do what I can."

"This shows it's easy to get along with the Senator from Oregon (Morse) if you try," grinned Morse.

The Wherry amendment, approved Wednesday, provides for a special assistant to the ECA administrator "in charge of small business." The new official would "formulate methods whereby American small business will be assured equitable participation insofar as practicable in the furnishing of commodities and services for procurement . . ."

Two minor amendments were accepted yesterday without opposition.

One, by Senator Owen Brewster (R., Me.) would bar use of ECA funds by participating countries to advertise their products or to pay for foreign travel ads in the United States.

The other, by Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.), simply required the ECA administrator to make sure "efficient use" is made of commodities sent abroad.

Senator James P. Kem (R., Mo.) sponsored the proposed ban on use of Marshall Plan money to nationalize European industries, while Senator William Langer (R., N. Dak.) tried to stop further dismantling of German industries. A bipartisan coalition overwhelmed both amendments.

Other amendments rejected:

By Senator J. William Fulbright (D., Ark.), to make "political" union of western Europe a major goal of the program. Defeated, 67 to 15.

By Senator Bridges, to require a "made in America" label on all products shipped to Europe. Defeated, 56 to 26.

By Senator Kem, to deny aid to nations which fail to make their currency reflect its true value in dollar terms. Defeated by a voice vote.

se., and Lee Thomas Lewis, 3612 39th ave., Colmar Manor. The first three were arrested in a March 25 raid at Barber's Newsstand, 427 10th st. nw., and the last five were arrested in a raid on the headquarters of State Wide Sports News Distributors, at the Bladensburg rd. address.

Two men were indicted on charges of setting up a gaming table for the purpose of betting on horse races.

They were Attilio Acalotti, alias Otillo Acolotti, alias Till F. Alcott, 40, of 908 14th st. nw., and Umberto "Chi-Chi" D'Ambrosio, 1227 New York ave. nw.

Acalotti's name appeared on three other indictments yesterday. With "Snags" Lewis, he was the only person to be named on more than one of the 12 indictments.

Acalotti was also indicted on charges that he did "corruptly, by threats of serious bodily harm, endeavor to influence, intimidate and impede a witness in the discharge of her duties." The witness was Bernice Franklin, red-headed former waitress, once Acalotti's friend, but more recently a key Government witness.

Acalotti was also indicted on charges of setting up a gaming table for the purpose of betting on horse races with Frederick C. Whiteoak, 31, 1504 Oates st., ne., and Ralph Caparotti, alias "Rags" Costello, 1124 Oates st., ne. All three are Washington Times-Herald circulation men.

The last indictment in which Acalotti was named, charged that he, "Snags" Lewis, and Frank Billeci, 41, 509 Margaret dr., Silver Spring, Md., promoted a numbers lottery. Billeci is also a Times-Herald circulator.

Another indictment charged Harry S. Kopel, copartner in Hammel's Restaurant, 416 10th st. nw., with two counts of maintaining a place for the purpose of gambling on horse races, with accepting a $3 horse bet, and with possession of numbers slips. Also named in the Kopel indictment was Walter C. Plummer, 37, 6228 North Dakota ave. nw., a waiter in Hammel's Restaurant, one of Washington's best-known steak houses.

Philip Samakow, 50, 1360 Peabody st. nw., was indicted on charges of setting up a gaming table for the purpose of betting on horse races, and for promoting a numbers lottery.

Walter Mason, alias "Sonny" Mason, 38, 760 Newton pl. nw., and Simon Best, 1444 W st. nw., were indicted on charges of promoting a numbers lottery. Best was one of the two men who had not been arrested prior to yesterday's grand jury action.

The other men indicted yesterday who had not been previously arrested in connection with Fay's gambling investigation, was Louis Lieberman, who owns a grocery at 1704 7th st. nw. He was indicted on charges of setting up a gaming table for the purpose of betting on horse races.

Bench warrants were issued for arrest of Best and Lieberman late yesterday.

Fay tried to remove Lieberman's telephone on the grounds that it was being used in violation of the District gambling statutes. Lieberman filed a petition for a court order restraining the United States Attorney from so doing. Through counsel Thursday, Lieberman tried unsuccessfully to force Fay to give a deposition on the evidence Fay had for removing the telephone.

Ralph Caparotti, Frank Billeci, Garner Barbour

Nicholas Floratos, alias "Nick the Greek" Floratos, 59, 1029 9th st. nw., was indicted on three counts of violating the laws prohibiting the numbers lottery.

The final grand jury indictment was returned against Henry E. Fish, about 55, of 1007 K st. nw., on charges of setting up a gaming table for the purpose of betting on horse races. Fish was a waiter at Hammel's restaurant, when it was raided, March 25.

The conspiracy offense carries a maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine, or five years in jail, or both.

Violation of the District lottery law is punishable by a $1000 fine, three years in jail, or both.

The statute against setting up a gaming table provides for a five-year jail term.

The law against bookmaking carries a maximum penalty of a $500 fine, 90 days in jail, or both.

Obstructing justice by intimidating a Government witness is punishable by a $500 fine or five years in jail or both.

Although yesterday's indictments were the first handed down by this grand jury in its 11-month existence, the jury was not discharged, according to its deputy foreman, Lionel V. Atwill, who handed the indictments to District Judge Richmond B. Keech. This gave rise to speculation that Fay would present more evidence and seek more indictments, but Fay would not comment. The jury expires by law in November.

Arraignment of the men was set for Thursday.

All the men are free on $1500 bond, which most posted at the time of their arrest before United States Commissioner Cyril J. Lawrence.

The five men arrested at State Wide headquarters were supposed to have had a preliminary hearing yesterday morning before United States Commissioner F. Archie Meatyard, jr., in Bethesda. By the time the hearing was scheduled, however, the grand jury had already indicted the men. They proceeded to District Court, posted $1500 there, and left Meatyard's jurisdiction.

Most of those who were indicted yesterday are scheduled for a hearing before Lawrence either Tuesday or Wednesday, at which time the Government must show cause why the men should be held for trial. Now that the grand jury has found cause why the men should be held, the future of the two hearings next week is uncertain.

Fay said yesterday that because of the grand jury action, the men have now left Lawrence's jurisdiction.

Lawyers for the accused gamblers, including Charles Ford, Myron Ehrlich, Denny Hughes, James Hughes, Louis Lebowitz, Clifford Allder and Alvin Newmyer, were bristling with plans for counter-attack yesterday.

Defense strategy will concentrate on motions to quash the indictments on the grounds that affidavits were not attached to arrest warrants in all cases, motions to dismiss the evidence on the grounds that the evidence was illegally obtained and motions to restrain the Government's efforts to remove telephones.

The name of Sam Beard, often called the kingpin of District gambling, was mentioned in one of the 12 indictments, although Beard himself was not indicted.

In the indictment of Olf and four others, arrested in the State Wide raid, the grand jurors presented 12 overt acts, one of which read, "12. On, to wit, January 29, 1949, the defendant Murray H. Olf wrote and made out a check drawn on the Prince Georges Bank & Trust Co. of Maryland in the sum of one thousand and ten dollars and payable to the order of S. R. Beard."

Fay would not comment on this check.

The State Wide raid was made by United States marshals on information supplied Fay's office by Wilfred D. Barrett, a 24-year-old law student, who was hired as an undercover agent.

In the affidavit attached to the search warrant, Barrett deposed that he had made several horse race bets in a rear room at Barber's News Stand, and that he had watched John Quinn telephone to Warfield 6600 for race results and odds. This telephone number is listed to State Wide.

In other overt acts charged by the grand jury in connection with the indictment of those arrested at State Wide and at Barber's News Stand, Lee Lewis was charged with operating a telegraph ticker, Doyle, Frischer and Cohen were charged with taking telephone calls of bets, and William Quinn was charged with accepting Barrett's $3 bet.

Barrett also supplied the Government with the information that led to the raid on Hammel's Restaurant and the arrest of three persons there.

Key Government witness against Acalotti was his former girl friend, Bernice Franklin. She has said in her affidavits that she was "intimately and closely" acquainted with Acalotti during 1948 and the first part of 1949. She has described in detail the manner in which she said Acalotti ran his "bookmaking business" and his "numbers business." She named the persons to whom Acalotti laid off horse race and numbers bets. She said in her affidavit that to her knowledge one of the men, to whom Acalotti laid off bets, worked for "Snags" Lewis.

On her information, the Government raided Lewis' headquarters and arrested 14 men there. On her information the Government arrested Acalotti on gambling charges, and when she said her former friend had threatened her, the Government slapped another charge of obstructing justice against Acalotti.

A third Government undercover agent was Pasquale F. Sanducci, an employe of the Justice Department in New York. Sanducci, a stocky man, about 50, testified only once before the grand jury after the eight simultaneous raids.

On his information, the Government arrested and the grand jury indicted Nicholas Floratos at the Macedonia Coffee House, 746 9th st. nw.

The grand jury charged that "On, to wit, December 10, 1948, within the District of Columbia, Nick Floratos sold and transferred to Pasquale F. Sanducci a chance, right and interest in a lottery, known as the numbers game."

The indictments against Samakow, Mason, Best and Lieberman give no indication as to the methods used by the Government to get the evidence on which the grand jury indicted them.

Meanwhile, almost lost in the confusion of the 36 indictments, eight new civil actions were filed yesterday seeking to restrain Fay from removing telephones he says are being used in violation of the District gambling statutes.

Four of the actions were filed in District Court. The telephones will not be disconnected, pending a decision Monday on a case testing the legality of telephone removal.

Four of the suits were filed in Prince Georges County Circuit Court, where Judge Charles C. Marbury granted four temporary restraining orders, preventing the removal of the telephones.

The suits filed there included two on behalf of State Wide and Automatic Music Devices, Inc., of the same address.

Prince Georges Grand Jury Misses Connection With Two

Attorney James J. Laughlin and Mrs. John B. Keleher who were to supply gambling evidence to the Prince Georges County grand jury yesterday, left the Upper Marlboro courthouse without testifying.

Laughlin told reporters he and Mrs. Keleher, wife of a once-convicted gambler, had been waiting to be called from 10:15 a. m. until 1:55 p. m. but then had to leave to keep an engagement in Washington.

State's Attorney A. Gwynn Bowie, at whose invitation Laughlin and Mrs. Keleher appeared, declared that the two were informed shortly before the jury recessed for lunch at 12:30 p.m. that Mrs. Keleher would be the first to be called after the recess.

"Mr. Laughlin not only failed to bring the other witnesses I expected him to bring but stated categorically to me that he knew 'absolutely no facts' he could testify to before our grand jury.

"Neither Mr. Laughlin nor Mrs. Keleher returned after the noon recess and we were unable to locate either of them again."

Laughlin later told reporters that he had "no personal knowledge" of gambling in the county but said he gave Bowie the name of a witness who had.

During the afternoon session, the jury heard testimony from Maj. Ralph Brown, Prince Georges Police chief, and Eugene Plummer, head of the Mount Rainier force. Neither would comment on their testimony.

21 Graduates Given Army Commissions

Twenty-one "distinguished military graduates" from colleges in Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia have been nominated by President Truman for appointment as second lieutenants in the Regular Army.

The Army said such distinguished graduates are selected annually from former ROTC students for permanent Army commissions. A total of 392 graduates were nominated this year from colleges throughout the United States and possessions and 60 others have been chosen but will not be nominated until they are 21 years old.

Seventeen of the total are Negro ROTC graduates from six Negro universities or colleges. Their appointment will bring the number of Negro Regular Army officers in active service to 78, ranging in rank up to lieutenant colonel. In addition there are 1100 Negro Reserve officers on active duty.

Campus Leadership Factor

Distinguished military graduates are picked by the professors of military science and tactics at various universities, based on high standing in their military subjects and demonstrated leadership in various fields of campus life.

Here are the D. C., Maryland and Virginia honor graduates who have been nominated:

Georgetown—Andre M. Kahn.

University of Maryland—John S. Linlay, 3d, Milton L. Ilgenfritz and Andreas J. Moller.

'Peaches' Browning Gets Fourth Divorce

Redwood City, Calif., April 8 (AP).—Frances (Peaches) Browning Hyne Civelli Willson says she's through with married life.

Superior Judge Edmund Scott today awarded her a divorce from her fourth husband, Ralph N. Willson, member of an Ohio meat-packing family.

Frances was a 15-year-old showgirl in 1926 when she married 51-year-old Edward W. (Daddy) Browning, wealthy New York real estate dealer.

President Truman called on communities yesterday to revive their wartime programs for the "spiritual and moral well-being" of servicemen.

He indorsed the first report of his nine-member committee on religion and welfare in the armed forces which found that civilians generally show apathy toward the youths who have been drafted or recruited to defend their country.

The committee suggested a Nation-wide drive, led by the recently revived USO, to provide community-sponsored dances, sports and other forms of recreation.

Other major needs, it said, include better housing facilities for servicemen's families near military posts and more chaplains in the armed forces to provide religious guidance.

Noting that more than 500,000 of the 700,000 persons who donned uniforms last year were under 21, Mr. Truman said it was "clear that these are not mature professionals."

The committee's report, he said, confirmed his belief that "there is an immediate and long-term need for an expansion of existing community activities and services in support of the spiritual and moral well-being of personnel in the armed forces."

Among things communities and groups within communities can do on their own immediately, the committee listed:

1. Encouraging servicemen to attend church, and providing special weekend religious classes and activities for them.

2. Sponsoring dances and other social affairs, both on and off military posts, and providing chaperons and "junior hostesses."

3. Enforcing laws with respect to sale of alcoholic beverages, and establishing programs for "prevention of prostitution and venereal diseases."

4. Setting up housing agencies it help servicemen find temporary quarters for visiting relatives, and in the case of older men, decent homes for their families.

5. Arranging, if possible, for theaters, sports arenas, skating rinks, bowling alleys, restaurants and similar establishments to give some discount or concessions to men and women in uniform.

6. Establishing "information centers" to tell servicemen about the community services available.

The committee, appointed last October 27, is headed by Frank L. Weil, president of the National Jewish Welfare Board. Members are the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, vice president of Georgetown University; Dr. Daniel A. Poling, editor of the Christian Herald; Basil O'Connor, president of the American Red Cross; Truman Gibson, Chicago attorney; Dr. Lindsley F. Kimball, vice president of the Rockefeller Foundation; Mark A. McCloskey of the New York City Board of Education; Mrs. Ferdinand Powell, jr., Johnson City, Tenn., and Miss Dorothy Enders, Milwaukee.

Arrest of 15 to 20 Rebels Reported In Guatemala

Guatemala, Guatmela, April 8 (AP)—A military spokesman said today troops hunting a rebel band in the mountains near the Mexican frontier have arrested 15 or 20 man.

The spokesman said the situation was normal.

Despite the flurry over a $35,000 robbery of the El Carmen ustoms house and clashes at Ayutla and Malacatan in the past 48 hours. President Juan Arvela appeared carefree.

tion police were taking. It would take hours to dig straight down 100 or more feet.

Kathy was playing in a vacant lot near her home with her older sister, Barbara, 9, and a cousin, Gus Lyon, 5. They were foot-racing from one end of the lot to the other. Kathy couldn't keep up.

When the two older children looked back, they couldn't see little Kathy. They started looking for her and Gus heard her crying as he passed within inches of the hole.

The children ran to the Fiscus home and told Mrs. Fiscus.

The frantic mother told police she leaned down and shouted:

"Can you hear me, Kathy?"

The reply came faintly, a terrified, "Yes."

The pipe down which the child fell was one of several drilled by the San Marino branch of the California Water and Telephone Co. on the future site of a Masonic temple.

Kathy's father is the San Marino district manager of the company.

Mummies of Egyptian Scribe, Woman Taken From Coffins

Memphis, Egypt, April 8 (AP).—Coffins of a temple scribe and his companions, buried 25 centuries ago, were opened today to add to man's knowledge af ancient Egypt.

Archeologists lifted the lids of Lebanon cedar mummy-shaped caskets discovered in the rock-walled tombs 100 feet below the ground of Sakkara Cemetery in this ancient capital of Egypt.

The scribe, whose tomb was discovered March 26, was identified as Kannufeir. His name means "beautiful personality."

As the lid was lifted from the casket of one of his companions, a goldleaf mask glittered in the glare of electric lighting. This was the coffin of a woman, not yet identified. The age-blackened mummy had a covering over the breast carrying gold, red and yellow-inscribed pictorial characters. The remainder of the body was covered with a net of light blue and black small beads.

Seven hours were devoted to the opening of the first 4 of 10 coffins found in the tombs. As each was opened, photographic experts of the United States Navy and the Medical Research Center in Cairo took color movies and still pictures.

Air Command Unified for 2 Bases Here

Andrews and Bolling Air Force bases were placed under the same command jurisdiction yesterday to facilitate instrument and proficiency training for flying officers assigned to Greater Washington.

Col. S. D. Grubbs will be commanding officer of Headquarters Command, USAF, for both of the bases, under the unification order issued by Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenburg, AF chief of staff.

The Military Air Transport Service, Fourth Fighter Wing, District Air Reserve and Air National Guard will continue to be based at Andrews.

Colonel Grubbs' command will include the 1100th Air Base Wing at Bolling, commanded by Col. Henry J. Amen, and the 1050th Air Base Wing at Andrews, commanded by Col. Arthur C. Agen, jr. Both wing commanders will direct their base operations under the supervision of Colonel Grubbs.

Units that will continue to use Andrews facilities for headquarters activities include the Military Air Transport Command; 2238th Air Force Reserve Training Center; 113th Fighter Group; Air National Guard, and the Fourth Fighter Wing.

Reds Publish Lenin Book as Pertinent Now

Moscow, April 8 (NYHT).—A newly-published volume of Lenin's writings on war and peace was recommended highly today by the government newspaper Izvestia as having a vital bearing on basic issues in the present-day world.

The book contains Lenin's writings in the period 1916-1917—just before the Bolshevik revolution in Russia.

Lenin, according to Izvestia, was "an implacable foe of pacifism" and considered it "a policy of appeasing raging imperialist pirates." He advocated, instead, a policy of terminating war through a revolution of the proletariat. He denounced right-wing Socialists for opposing such revolutionary aims and playing along with the capitalists.

Applying Lenin's doctrine to the contemporary scene, Izvestia referred to Schumacher, Saragat, Bevin and Attlee as right-wing Socialists who "serve American imperialism with zeal."

(Dr. Kurt Schumacher is head of the Social Democratic Party in western Germany; Giuseppe Saragat is the leader of the right-wing Italian Socialist Workers Party (PSLI); Ernest Bevin is British Foreign Secretary, and Clement Attlee is British Prime Minister.)

Lenin's theory of revolution, Izvestia said, gave to the national units of the international proletariat faith in the possibility of overthrowing their own bourgeoisie and achieving a "socialist revolution in individual countries."

Izvestia quoted Lenin as having said: "Socialism cannot conquer simultaneously in all countries. It will conquer first in one or several countries and others will remain bourgeois or semi-bourgeois for some time. This must arouse not only friction but an outright effort by the bourgeoisie of other countries to crush the victorious proletariat of the socialist state. In such cases, war on our part would be right and just. It would be a war for socialism, for liberation of other peoples from the bourgeoisie."

'Jackpot' Winner Says Doctor Seeks North Pole Prize

John J. Noone, winner of $28,000 worth of prizes on the "Hit the Jackpot" radio program this week, says he thinks he can unload at least one of them.

Noone, of 4-G Southway, Greenbelt, Md., says an Albany doctor wants to buy the round trip flight to the North Pole, which was one of two dozen gifts Noone won and now wants to turn into cash. The doctor didn't say why he wants the trip in his letter, according to Noone.

The 36-year-old postal clerk thinks he'll keep one prize—a vacation to New York for two to see the circus. His daughter, Mary Theresa, 6, might be interested.

Conservatives Erase Labor's Council Edge

London, April 8 (AP).—The Conservative Party wiped out today the 56-seat Laborite majority in the London County Council, second most important governing body in Britain.

Final returns from the county election yesterday gave the Conservatives and Laborites 64 seats apiece and one seat to a Liberal, Sir Percy Harris. The Communists lost their representation.

The old council, elected in 1946, had 90 Laborites, 30 Conservatives, 2 Liberals and 2 Communists. Five additional seats had been created since the last election.

The Conservatives' comeback with metropolitan voters closely followed the announcement by Sir Stafford Cripps, Laborite Chancellor of the Exchequer, of the national budget for 1940-50. That budget held most taxes at their current high levels and upped the prices of some basic foods.

One unseated Laborite councilman, C. F. Rowe, said 10 per cent of the voters he canvassed last night told him they had turned away from the Labor Party candidates because of Cripps' call for continued austerity.

The Conservatives also have gained substantially in other county elections held throughout England and Wales in the past five days.

Laborites had controlled the London county council since 1936. The council, outranked in importance only by Parliament, administers schools, hospitals, public houses, parks, the fire department, streets, bridges and the like in the city's 28 boroughs. It also has licensing and local taxing powers and has charge of town planning and building regulations.

The election here was regarded by Conservatives as a curtain-raiser for the 1950 parliamentary election.

Henry Brooke, Conservative leader in the council, said: "We had a majority of 110,152 votes (1,443,121 to 1,332,969) despite the fact that we had 3 fewer candidates than Labor, 126 against 129."

The balloting was heavier than usual for a local election. The municipal society said 37 per cent of the electorate went to the polls as compared with 26 per cent in 1946.

his mother's warnings about playing in the street, had enough ice cream for himself in his own refrigerator, according to Mrs. Sneathern. But when the truck approached, he insisted she give him enough money to treat two of his neighborhood friends.

The truck driver, Arthur I. Anderson, 1356 L st. se., told Prince Georges County police he had just served Tommy and another neighborhood boy when he started to drive away from in front of the Sneathern home. He had traveled only a few feet, police said, when he felt a jar underneath the wheels of the truck.

According to police, both front and back wheels of the vehicle passed over the boy's head.

Anderson was charged with reckless driving and manslaughter, and released under $1100 bond for a hearing in Hyattsville Police Court next Thursday at 10 a. m.

2 Anti-Fascists Win Reversal sulted from anything she did or omitted doing.

Judge Prettyman said there was sufficient evidence to show that Mrs. Fleischman could have produced the records and said the presence of a quorum was immaterial.

"Whatever may be the factual circumstances, the default is complete when the summons is not obeyed, and if the disobedience is intentional, a willful default has occurred," he said.

In the Bryan case, the court found the defendant was the actual custodian of the records, but reversed the decision because the question of the quorum was not submitted to the jury.

Sixteen other members of the anti-fascist group were convicted. Included were Howard Fast, the novelist, and Dr. Edward K. Barsky, prominent New York surgeon.

While yesterday's decisions of the Appeals Court did not apply to the other defendants, some of whom have made a vain appeal to the Supreme Court, the United States Attorney's office here admitted that the reversals opened the possibility for further court action.

All of the defendants have been free on bond since their conviction. Last April, Judge Richmond B. Keech sentenced Miss Bryan and Mrs. Fleischman to serve three months and to pay a $500 fine each.

Finnegan Nominated As Circuit Court Judge

President Truman yesterday nominated Philip J. Finnegan, of Illinois, to be judge of the Seventh United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Finnegan, now a judge of the Cook County Circuit Court, was named to succeed Judge William M. Sparks of Indiana, retired.

Forrestal's Illness

The news of the admission of James Forrestal to Bethesda Naval Hospital for care and treatment has been a continuing shock to the Capital. It had long been known that the former Secretary of Defense was worn out. The general public little realizes the onerousness of the burden that is imposed upon its public servants in these harassing days. If the United States is on the summit of the world, that eminence has to be supported and held by administrators, not by an abstraction. The while they have to live and work under the white glare of criticism. In Mr. Forrestal's case the burden was especially hard because he headed a new department, and a department, moreover, which rested, so to speak, on one leg. Congress is now discussing a proposal to give the administration of the department authority in accord with its supreme importance. Mr. Forrestal's illness—the revelation of the nervous exhaustion that he was reduced to — should expedite legislative action. Some words of Mr. Churchill in Boston afford a further argument for reorganization. Among the "ifs" with which he qualified his assertion that time is on our side in winning the battle of the peace was the reservation that the nerves of our leaders stay strong. That is perfectly true. Congress could recognize the truth, and strike a blow for peace, by providing a framework of organization adequate to the tasks expected of our administrators. In the meantime Mr. Forrestal will have the good wishes of everybody who observed him day after day and sometimes night after night trying to carry out a Sisyphean assignment without wincing and without losing the modesty and naturalness which high office ruins in most men.

Tourists And Recovery

Among the most important exports the United States can make to Europe is the export of American students and teachers. This is true because of both the contributions to understanding that result from cultural interchange and the fact that educators and young people often are this country's best ambassadors. It is true also because Europe needs and wants tourists. Proceeds from tourism mean dollars for dollar-hungry Europe. American tourists, in short, are a vital factor in European recovery through the Marshall Plan—something the Communists have not overlooked in their attempts to discourage foreign visitors by promoting unrest.

Unfortunately, commercial travel facilities are virtually blocked to students and persons of moderate means who constitute the great bulk of potential visitors. There is a great shortage of passenger shipping, both American and foreign (the keel of the first American postwar passenger ship was laid only last Monday). Reservations this summer are almost impossible to get; moreover, travel on the available liners is extremely expensive for student pocketbooks.

Senator Flanders, speaking for himself and six colleagues, has come forward with a practical solution to this impasse. His resolution requests the President to make available surplus ships for student travel at low cost—approximately $250 round trip to Europe. Such ships, primarily war-built C-4s, are now available; they have been operated by the Maritime Commission through agents largely to bring displaced persons to this country. The ships are of the dormitory type, not palatial or even comfortable, but adequate for the purpose. Senator Flanders suggests that they could be used to carry approximately 7500 travelers abroad this summer and on the return trips bring some 5400 additional displaced persons to the United States.

A principal obstacle to this plan is the recent presidential order transferring these ships to the Army for transporting DPs—though it now appears that the Army does not want all the 12 ships available. Since such vessels under Army operation would not be permitted to carry private passengers to Europe, valuable space would be wasted by this arrangement. Time is of the essence. Passage of the Flanders resolution might serve to convince the President of the wisdom of revising his order. It would also encourage Maritime Commission efforts to charter the ships to private operators in time to serve what is practically a guaranteed market. Lethargy in this matter serves only to help the Russians obstruct the Marshall Plan.

Three In Harmony

The deadlock at Bonn, where the Germans have been struggling for months over a basic law for a new government for western Germany, may be broken by the spectacle of three-power agreement in Washington. It ought to mark the end of Allied wrangling over Germany. Provided that the Germans are able to set up a government within the framework of reference they have now obtained, Allied military government will be replaced by high commissioners working as a board under agreed-upon powers and voting rules. It would be optimistic to say that differences both in spelling out the agreement and over details have been liquidated. But if the sincerity in which the Foreign Ministers came together is maintained, there should be no insuperable difficulty.

The formula for this meeting of the Foreign Ministers was sure-fire, viz, an agreement to agree. But this formula is possible only when parties are each assured of the other's sense of compromise and amenability to reason; and this was the real achievement of the Foreign Ministers.

A lot of irritation had been engendered in Allied military councils over what had come to be thought of as French obstructionism. What was dubbed obstructionism was in fact realism. The French would rather have seen a confederation encouraged in Germany, but, this proving unacceptable, they fell back on a maximum federalism. Here they stuck—and quite rightly. French rigidity was confirmed by the push to centralization—a push coming in Britain from ideological Socialists anxious to see the coal-steel complex in the Ruhr nationalized and in America from people sick of the burden of supporting Germany and anxious to create in Germany a self-supporting buffer state against Russia. A noticeable move toward the French thesis has been in evidence in Secretary Acheson's position on Germany. The move really began, though it was expressed discontinuously, in the Marshall regime. Foreign Minister Schuman impressed Mr. Marshall, and the respect with which the moderate and broad-minded Frenchman is held by American diplomats has been enhanced during his visit in Washington. With the British falling into line, there was little difficulty in finding a common meeting ground on a federal structure for Germany.

The log jams that have been removed in Washington were many and troublesome. There was a whole collection of them in the working out of the form of administration in three-power supervision in western Germany after the rise of German government. The French wanted a joint regime in fact as well as on paper. Mr. Bevin clung to separate supervision. On this point he appears to have compromised, in return for compromises in the exercise of veto power on the High Commission. But the main log jam to be removed had to do with the principle and the extent of the federalism upon which a west German government must be based.

The spotlight is now turned on the Bonn constitution-makers. At last they have a framework of reference in which to operate—that is to say, knowledge of exactly what reserve powers the Allies will retain. This has hitherto been denied them. How in the world they could have been expected to produce a constitution without a foreknowledge of the powers to be allowed the federal government was beyond understanding. Perhaps they will now agree to establish a government. Federalism, however, is not popular in Germany, except as an adjunct to Europeanization. Anne O'Hare McCormick recently reported from Germany that "The desire for a European union is more widespread here than in any country this correspondent has visited. It is far stronger than faith in the Bonn constitution." The conferees in Washington have recognized this German desire for participation in the larger community of Europe by providing for German representation on the OEEC, and an understanding is in effect, it is said, also to admit Germany to the Council of Europe.

Partition of Germany, to be sure, has been brought nearer by the compact in Washington. And this is as distasteful and as dangerous as the partition of Europe. But the realities cannot be ignored, and the Allies could make a virtue out of necessity by devoting themselves from now on to the creation of a European Europe. For the meeting of minds on Germany, all three negotiators deserve great credit. It is a great debut for Secretary Acheson—one for which he deserves the warmest congratulations.

Spy Tracks

Senate Bill 595, on which hearings before the Eastland Subcommittee began Tuesday, was introduced by Senator McCarran. It has the backing of Attorney General Tom Clark and the Justice Department. But it was written primarily by the Government's military and civilian bloodhounds and it shows their paw-prints. We found a number of faults with it last January at the time it was unveiled, and we are glad to see that the Senators of the subcommittee are not forgetting our caveat that "freedom of information is even more important to democracy than the catching of spies."

The bill as it stands goes much further in a number of respects than is necessary, wise, or decent. Senators Eastland and Ferguson questioned the extraordinary breadth of one provision in particular. Reduced to its least common denominator, this would lay a $5000 fine and one year's imprisonment against a person who violates fire- or accident-prevention regulations at any waterfront or airport installation in time of peace. Like Senator Eastland, we wonder if this trick is necessary to catch saboteurs in time of war, which is the ostensible excuse for it.

On the wiretapping provision we have commented before. But since it typifies the extreme limits of discretion the bloodhounds would give themselves, its terms may be laid bare again. Section 5 authorizes the directors of the FBI and the armed forces intelligence agencies, under rules and regulations prescribed by the Attorney General and upon his express written approval, to intercept and record any telephone or telegraph communication. The stipulation that this applies to protection of the national defense and security against treason, sabotage, etc., loses all meaning in that the permission can be used to "ascertain" any plans for interference with the national security in any manner.

This, in effect, puts no restriction on governmental snooping into private affairs except the discretion of the Attorney General. With due respect to Mr. Clark, we do not believe this is protection enough for the citizens of a democracy against the insidious spying of their own Government. Protestations of good faith and high purpose by current officeholders are not a solid foundation for the freedom of future generations. To be sure, we owe it to posterity not to permit the defeat of our free institutions for lack of vigilance, but vigilance is something different from vigilantism.

Legislative Timetable

Senator Lucas, the majority leader, has good reason to complain of procrastination in the Senate. That body has been moving at a snail's pace ever since it shook itself free from the filibuster over the cloture rule. Partisan critics are already laughing at the "No Can Do Congress" in retaliation for President Truman's denunciation of the previous session as the "Do Nothing Congress." The Senate will certainly have to speed up if it is to deal with any substantial part of the Administration's program at the present session.

There is some ground for the President's charge that the procrastination is obstructionist. It is attested by the veiled filibuster which preceded yesterday's overwhelming authorization of the new ERP program. Candor forces one to recognize, however, that the Senate is only doing what it has always done in the past. It is leaving an enormous volume of important legislation for consideration in the latter part of the session. Last July Senator Francis J. Myers was so disgusted with the cramming of vital bills into the prolonged and nerve-wracking session just before adjournment that he introduced a concurrent resolution proposing a legislative timetable. He would have required the majority leaders of the two houses to consult with the chairmen and ranking members of the House and Senate and then to prepare a legislative program for the orderly consideration of major bills. Now that he is majority whip he has not even reintroduced his resolution, although we are informed that he still intends to do so.

The legislative timetable is obviously the sensible answer to Senator Lucas' problem. The Senate will always dawdle along unless it is held to a regular schedule of work, with night sessions and invocation of cloture when necessary. This does not mean, of course, that individual Senators are not working hard, but only that the time available is not well divided among the major pieces of legislation. The Senate may spend several days or weeks on trivialities because no legislative timetable compels them to give attention to first things first. Even though three months of the present session have gone, it is not too late to recoup some of the time losses by reviving the timetable idea.

Baby Sitters, Ltd.

A general move seems to be on to regulate a new business which has been running wild—that of baby sitting. In the District of Columbia, licensing of individual baby sitters is being sought by Chatham T. Nottingham, license superintendent. Also in the District, as well as other parts of the country, schools and organizations are offering training courses for baby sitters. It is surprising that something along these lines has not been done sooner. Since baby sitting emerged early in the war period as a fast-growing industry, the tendency has been to treat it lightly, as a subject for cartoons and cocktail party anecdotes. Yet the children left with sitters usually belong in the under-6 class, an age when experiences and impressions do their main molding of character.

While licenses testifying to ability, skill, character, are required of those who drive motor cars, fix faucets, dress hair, treat sickness, teach arithmetic, almost anybody can be called in as a baby sitter. Recently Dr. James F. Bender, head of the National Institute of Human Relations, warned that "jitterbugging" baby sitters were contributing to the general nervousness of children. The untrained and irresponsible adult sitter is even more dangerous, as some recent arrests have shown. True, sitters' agencies in the District must obtain $100 operating licenses, but the Women's Bureau of the Police Department insists on more protection. It would have the background and character of sitters investigated and health tests given. It also questions whether sitters under 16 should be left alone with children.

Baby sitting in the future should offer much opportunity for part-time work and pin money to older women and students, even though the annual baby crop is declining from its wartime high. For the growing pattern in this country of early marriage and parenthood results in many young parents needing help with their children while they pursue their social interests. Also a long-range decline in domestic help is taking place. Hence standards of baby sitting should be improved and more supervision and training provided.

Churchill's Message

Those who did not read or hear the full text of Mr. Churchill's speech, but relied upon the dispatches, editorials, and columnists, have so far it seems to me been deprived of its crowning passage. Speaking of the imminence of atomic war with Russia, Mr. Churchill says "there remains however, a key of deliverance . . . namely, the creation of a world instrument capable at least of giving to all its members security against aggression."

This "key of deliverance" is altogether different from the abstract notion of "unity" and "neighborhood," as your April 1 editorial chose to interpret the phrase. Any "world instrument capable of giving security against aggression" would have to be more than an idea. It would be a man-made concrete reality, a form of government with police powers; as such it could preserve these ideas of "unity," "neighborhood," "justice," and "freedom" which men cherish.

Mr. Churchill states further regarding our labors to establish a world instrument that "we must not despair. We must persevere" and together with "combined forethought and superior science . . . here lies the best hope of averting a third world struggle, and a sure means of coming through it without being enslaved or destroyed."

Is this not Mr. Churchill's message at Cambridge rather than, as the Alsops maintain in their April 4 column, a veiled proposal to provoke a preventive war with Russia before Russia possesses the bomb, or merely to sit back and hope communism collapses after Stalin's death?

Home Terrorism

It is significant that in the same city where the Atlantic Pact has just been signed a Negro family has been terrorized by their white neighbors. Is this the type of freedom the pact is supposed to protect, the freedom of a powerful nation to oppress the weak?

The report of the National Committee on Segregation in the Nation's Capital, published last November, shows that the Negro people here are being forced into a smaller and smaller area with consequent worsening of housing conditions. What happens when one of these "displaced persons" tries to better himself. Rocks are thrown, windows are broken and a fire is started in the back yard. Before we talk about any more pacts, we had better think about reestablishing democracy at home.

ROY H. WOOD.

Mr. Clifford Newell, former president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, blamed it on children. But who instigated the action of the children, if it was children? Children are products of their environment.

Ostracism! Absolute enforcement of every rule and regulation of the community! This is the respectable, adult way of ridding the community of an unwanted newcomer. But what about this newcomer? Why isn't he wanted? Is he a criminal? Will he contaminate the area in which he lives? Will he eat little children? Will he throw rocks at neighbors' windows? Will he start fires in their back yards?

I don't know! But from what is known of this man, it hardly seems likely. The color of his skin does not mean that he has more aptitude toward indecency than one of any other skin color. For the sake of everything decent, for the goals many of our friends and relatives died for, let us give every man a chance to prove himself good or evil.

Falls Church Streets

In September, 1948, Falls Church became a second-class city, by virtue of population, but I do not think it looks like one.

Since last September, Great Falls st., one of the most traveled streets in Falls Church, has been torn up twice to put in pipes; each time the street is left in a poorer condition than before. It is now impassable from Lee Highway past Little Falls st on foot because of mud on the street and sidewalk, and a trench filled in with mud covers one side of the street, making it single lane traffic to automobiles.

Since this street is partially torn up a present, I suggest it as a good starting point to putting sewers, gutters, and sidewalks on all streets in the city. If this were done, Falls Church would gradually begin to look like a city. BARBARA KENDRICK.

What Kind Of Theater?

Is there an ungobbledygooker in the house?

Mr. William Stannard in his letter published March 31 in your column attempted to douse the enthusiasm for the Belasco Theater project. He points out that it's the plays themselves and not the building that keeps the people coming. That's certainly a simple truth and plain spoken enough even for me to grasp, but hadn't we better start to get a building?

Then Mr. Stannard says that "those producing plays must not sit back and merely open and close the curtain, but try to have what happens between the curtains be theater." He predicts that the Belasco will close just as fast as the theaters in New York, "if the plays become sociological, philosophical, and what have you."

All of our literature seems to be about these things. So are all the plays whether they were written by Euripides, Shakespeare, Ibsen, Garcia-Lorca, Tennessee Williams. Mr. Stannard must be lobbying for a truly unique kind of play.

As for my friends and me, we're weary of the 45-mile journeys to Baltimore to see shows and we're behind people like Coe, Carmody, Mangum, Schreiner, Hartke and many others who, despite such town criers as Mr. Stannard, are working for the means of a theater in Washington.

French Proportional Representation

The elections to the French provincial parliaments, held on March 20 and March 27, have led to a defeat of the Communists, who secured only a handful of seats. The parties supporting the government of Premiere Queuille, the so-called "Third Force," which seemed near a collapse a few months ago, reasserted themselves by outscoring the De Gaullists as well as the Communists.

It would be a mistake, however, to assume that French communism is on the decline. If new elections took place to the National Assembly (the former Chamber of Deputies), which is elected under proportional representation (hereafter referred to as P. R.), and in which the Communists with 180 seats are the strongest party, the "Third Force" would be certain to go down to defeat.

What happened in the elections to the departmental councils was one more demonstration of the effects of the majority system as compared with the effects of P. R. How well the French Communists continue to do under P. R. was demonstrated on January 23, when the city council of Grenoble was re-elected under that system of voting. There the Communists increased their percentage of the total popular vote from 30 to almost 40, and secured 15 council seats, as compared with 10 seats for the De Gaullists and 12 for the "Third Force."

What happened in Grenoble is not in every detail typical of what would happen in France in the case of new elections to the National Assembly under P. R., but it is characteristic of the major trends.

In fact, Mr. Lansing Warren reports in the New York Times of March 29, 1949, "In a local election in a Paris suburb, the Communists made gains yesterday under the system of proportional voting, which is a better system for them than majority rule." This happened on the same day when the Communists suffered a disastrous defeat in the provincial elections held under the majority system.

There is one thing which the Communists can do but rarely, and the De Gaullists only with difficulty—secure a majority of the votes cast in a single-member constituency. This is known to the Communists as well as to their opponents. The latter reintroduced the majority system for this very reason for most of the elections of the Council of the Republic (the former Senate) held last November.

As a result, Le Monde could predict (in its issue of November 7 and 8, 1948): "For P. R. as used two years ago a mixed system which will have as its first and certain effect to eliminate Communists entirely in 79 departments." These were the departments in which P. R. had been abolished; in the others it was retained, with the result, predicted again by Le Monde, that they would be the ones to elect what Communists would be elected.

For the provincial election of March 20 the Communists made an extraordinary effort, presenting candidates for every seat. Yet, in spite of this fact, even their popular vote declined; many voters did not want to "throw their votes away" by supporting Communist candidates who had no chance. If new elections were held under P. R. these voters would return to their party, exactly as they returned to it for the P. R. elections to the two city councils mentioned above, in spite of having acted differently in the elections of the Council of the Republic held a few months before.

There has, therefore, not been a recession of popular Communist strength in France, but there has been one more convincing demonstration that the majority system of voting causes both the Communists vote and the seats attributed to them to decline, even if the decline in votes is, for the time being, less catastrophic than the decline in the number of seats.

Hard-Headed Job Choosing

By Malvina Lindsay

Uncle Sam's Aid

THE AMERICAN pattern of job choosing is beginning to take a more realistic turn. Even though the old sentimental, prestige-seeking, follow-the-herd, gamble-on-the-big-pay check motives of selection still predominate, a more scientific approach—now aided materially by Uncle Sam—is developing.

Parents, by inverse methods, have had much to do with the way Americans are now making their livings, or seeking to make them. The refrain, "I don't want my child to work as hard as I have to," has tended in this country to keep young people out of their fathers' occupations. Parents also have put pressure on their children to enter pursuits that would supposedly give them prestige and easy money.

However, recently parents have been saying more generally, "I want my children to do the kind of work that will make them happy." But even that attitude is not helpful enough, as was brought out this week in Chicago at a meeting of the American Orthopsychiatric Association. In a report on a survey of parents' attitudes, it was pointed out that young people in choosing careers needed informed and understanding guidance at home as well as at school, and that parents were failing their children in this matter.

ALSO standing at the crossroads of job decision are many older persons who must change to work better suited to their years, veterans who haven't yet adjusted vocationally, and the millions of unhappy, frustrated square pegs in round holes. Thousands of this last group write the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics asking if it is too late for them to realize their ambitions of becoming doctors, preachers, to go into apple-growing, chinchilla-raising or other new pursuits.

Two things are needed by the person seeking a satisfying job. One is an understanding of which way his talents and interests lie. The other is information about the job economy—what is the present and future status of the 288 occupations by which Americans earn their livings.

The widely prevalent aptitude tests are helping many young people to assess their abilities. And an important step has now been taken by the Government to help its citizens survey the occupational landscape, much as they once studied geographical maps to locate new frontiers for homesteading.

After seven years of research, the Bureau of Labor Statistics has brought out an Occupational Outlook Handbook, which should help teachers, vocational counselors and parents to steer the workers of tomorrow out of crowded and declining fields into those that hold opportunity—and thus add to the Nation's creative production.

BUT THIS handbook reveals that picking a job field is something more involved than merely checking on occupations to see what they have to offer. It suggests how the changing social and economic scene must be appraised in relation to the jobs of tomorrow.

For example: What needs will be created by the increasing number of older people in the population, by the growing up of today's record number of children? In what fields do deaths or early retirement of workers open most opportunities? What is the relation of industries to localities? Will meat-eating continue to increase, thus opening jobs for butchers? How much social prestige will the blue-collar worker attain as technology is more and more emphasized? What will further exploration of the universe beyond our limited senses mean in job fields?

The handbook doesn't answer all these questions but by its discussions and charts it emphasizes their importance. It does give general information on the nature of occupations, on training required for them, wages, working conditions, future opportunities. In this it aims to look ahead about four or five years. But it also provides a vantage ground from which parents can attempt some surveying of the job world 30 years hence and sight some trails along which their children's talents may seem to lie.

Indians' Plight

The other evening I heard Secretary of the Interior Krug make a telling plea for donation to the Red Cross on the premise that he, personally, had had active experience with the way the Red Cross operates, i. e., relief of the Navajo Indians in the recent days of bad weather. This started me thinking: I pay taxes, part of which goes to the Bureau of Indian Affairs, under Mr. Krug's Department of the Interior. I donate to the American Red Cross with the full-hearted knowledge of what its work is, what it means, what it does; and this I do unstintingly.

What goes on that a bunch of miserable, conquered people, the supposed wards of our Government, should have to have the help of an outside agency to help them out of their plight in an emergency? What is our Government about that a situation like this is even permitted to occur? Why should J. A. Krug publicly acknowledge the inadequacy of the Government agency he heads and which is directly responsible for those people?

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Justice And The Communists

THE STRONG likelihood is that the trial of Alger Hiss on a charge of perjury in connection with the allegation he was a Communist agent will be postponed again. If the request of Hiss' counsel is approved, the trial of the case will go over into early May.

Childs

There is no inclination in the Department of Justice to go along with unnecessary delays. The case the Government will present has not altered in any way in its main outlines since the indictment against Hiss was returned by a grand jury in New York last December.

The desire of every American should be to insure a fair trial on the facts in this all-important case. It is possible that the postponements, which thus far have not been abnormal, serve that end.

As the weeks have passed the case has dropped out of the headlines. Those headlines were part of the supercharged atmosphere of fear and suspicion created by the methods of the House Un-American Activities Committee.

A fair trial would hardly have been possible in such an atmosphere. And the assurance that justice will be done, quite apart from the passions and prejudices of the moment, is in my opinion supremely important.

SOME weeks ago in this space I tried to discuss what seemed to me the tragedy of the story unfolded by Whittaker Chambers before the Un-American Activities Committee. Whether one accepted all of it as true, or part of it as true, or the whole of it as an invention, nevertheless it seemed to me to be the tragedy of a lost intellectual in his fumbling, conspiratorial relationships with other lost intellectuals.

Apparently I failed to say what I meant. Letters from readers accused me of defending confessed Communists. On the other hand, Hiss' friends felt that I had prejudged his case.

Two things seemed to me then essential to keep in mind, as they do today. The first is to preserve our institutions from attacks both from within and without. The second is an effort to understand why Americans fall for communism.

At the core of our freedom is the judicial system evolved out of long struggle. Under that system a man is presumed to be innocent until he is proved guilty.

It is often perverted, often corrupted. But that does not invalidate the system itself, which is upheld in a thousand courtrooms. Lynch law and the hysteria and prejudice of the crowd are the very antithesis of the Christian ethic at the root of the western system.

This matter of fair and impartial justice is troubling some Americans in connection with the trial of the 11 Communist leaders in New York. The question is whether they are being tried for their political opinions. The right of free opinion, short of obscenity or actual treason, is also central to the system we believe in.

EVENTUALLY, of course, the case of the Communists will go to the Supreme Court. It will be one of the most vexing issues to come before the nine justices in many years and, whatever their decision, it is bound to have far-reaching consequences.

If the Communist Party is found to be a criminal conspiracy directed by Soviet Russia, the Department of Justice will have a problem. Both FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and Attorney General Tom Clark are on record as opposing the outlawry by statute of the Communist Party. The alternative to outlawry, if the 11 are found guilty of conspiracy, would be to require all Communists to register as agents of a foreign power.

While we jealously guard our institutions, we also must try to understand the forces working to undermine them. It is hardly an accident of temperament that there are those who openly admit to espionage and loyalty to an alien system advocating violence and dictatorship.

When his case comes to trial, Hiss will have excellent counsel, including Lloyd Paul Stryker of New York, one of the ablest trial lawyers in the country. Hiss' friends at the Harvard Law School have quietly gathered a fund to help pay the high costs of his defense.

The enemy without is well known and his menace elaborately labeled. There is a greater danger from those within who rant about putting all Communists in jail, and by Communists they mean anyone disagreeing with them in any way. It is they who threaten the free institutions that are our heritage.

U. S. Resources Care Is Vital, Truman Says

President Truman said yesterday that the United States is the democratic world's champion of peace and must keep its economy "as strong and healthy as we can make it."

He said in a statement read to the National Rivers and Harbors Congress that "at no time in our history has it ever been more important for the United States to develop and conserve its natural resources."

In the years following World War II, he said, "the entire democratic world has rallied to our leadership in its quest for a durable peace.

"Despite the fact that we have not sought this position of leadership, we must face this responsibility squarely and carry it through," he said.

Rayburn Gives Cost Idea

Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn gave the delegates some idea of the price the Nation must pay to meet that responsibility.

"No one living now will ever see a cheap American Government again," he said. "We may look forward for some years to come to a Government costing about 40 billion dollars a year."

He said that flood control and reclamation are a "major domestic problem." If Americans continue being "vandals" in their use of natural resources, the day will come when "we will be looking for some place to raise food to support our population."

Chairman Clifford Davis (D., Tenn.) of a House flood control subcommittee said hearings will begin in the second week in May on the 500 million dollar flood control and rivers and harbors development program.

Three members of Congress roundly denounced the Hoover commission's recommendation that flood control work be transferred from the Army engineers to the Interior Department.

Last-Ditch Fight Pledged

Senator John L. McClellan (D., Ark.), president of the organization, said he considered the proposal "an assault that must be repelled."

Senator Dennis Chavez (D., N. Mex.) said the proposal would have "a more devastating effect than the good that might come out of it." Representative Henry D. Larcade, jr. (D., La.) promised to "fight to the last ditch" to defeat it.

The proposed Missouri Valley Authority was criticized by Senator Hugh Butler (R., Nebr.), who told the Congress it involved creation of a "super-board virtually free from control by Congress which would have authority to override State water laws all through the valley."

$16½ Billion Public Housing Plans Aired

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Raymond M. Foley, Housing and Home Finance Administrator, said yesterday the Administration's public housing and slum clearance program could cost $16,562,500,000 over 40 years.

His estimate was in response to questioning by the House Banking and Currency Committee.

Of the total sum, Foley estimated 16 billion dollars would be in subsidies for low-rent public housing at the rate of 400 million dollars a year for the next 40 years. Grants for slum clearance would total 500 million dollars. Subsidies for farms would total 50 million dollars over the next 10 years and grants for new minor repairs on farms would total $12,500,000.

Foley's figures were based on the assumption, he stressed, that all grants and loans would be expended.

Under questioning of Representative Albert M. Cole (R., Kan.), Foley said the average rent paid in subsidized low-rent public housing was $28. Actual rental costs of the units, however, Foley said, was $43. Of the $14 difference, local authorities and the Federal Government each paid half.

Bill Introduced To Give States Tidelands Title

By The Associated Press

The fight over ownership of the oil-rich tidelands broke out suddenly in the Senate yesterday with introduction of a bill to vest title in the States.

Senator McCarran (D., Nev.), chairman of the Judiciary Committee, introduced the measure and announced that 29 Senators were joining him in sponsoring it.

Immediately Senator Tobey (R., N. H.) shouted that he and others of like mind would do their best to kill it "in the interest of the people of the United States."

A 1947 decision of the Supreme Court held that the Federal Government had "paramount rights" in the tidelands of the California coast.

Airline to Start New Maryland Service Monday

By The Associated Press

All American Airways announced yesterday it is going to speed up and expand its passenger service in Maryland starting Monday.

All American will offer nonstop service between Cumberland and Hagerstown and Hagerstown and Baltimore which will cut about 30 minutes off present schedules.

The airline also will inaugurate service to Atlantic City, Vineland, N. J., and Dover, Del., from Washington and Baltimore.

House Unit Backs Bill on Cigarette Tax Collections

The House Ways and Means Committee yesterday approved legislation empowering the Federal Government to assist States in collecting their taxes on cigarettes.

Representative Jenkins (R., Ohio), author of the bill, said it is aimed at State tobacco tax avoidance by the mail order shipment of cigarettes from a State without a cigarette tax direct to consumers in States that impose such taxes.

Under threat of fine and imprisonment, the measure provides:

"Any person selling or disposing of cigarettes in interstate commerce whereby such cigarettes are shipped to other than a distributor licensed by or located in a State taxing the sale or use of cigarettes shall . . . forward to the tobacco tax administrator of the State into which such shipment is made, a memorandum or a copy of the invoice covering each and every such shipment of cigarettes made during the previous calendar month into said State . . ."

The States, then, could collect the State taxes from persons receiving cigarettes by mail.

Brannan Goes On Radio With Farm Program

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

One of the most widespread promotions for any domestic legislative program in years will start today when Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan will take the Administration's new farm plan to the country by radio.

Brannan will explain his new scheme for supporting farm incomes while at the same time lowering the retail cost of food, over two Nation-wide networks today. He will appear on a third national hookup Monday night.

In addition, transcriptions of Brannan's explanation of his proposal have been cut for distribution to local stations in all sections of the country.

On Farm and Home Hour

His first radio appearance will be at noon today, when he will speak on the National Farm and Home Hour on NBC. At 1:30 p. m. he will broadcast over CBS (Station WTOP). Monday night at 9:45 he will talk to a Nation-wide audience over the American Broadcasting Co. At 3:30 p. m. today he will appear on a program at Washington station WWDC.

Administration leaders made no secret yesterday that they are depending upon support from the Nation's consumers, as well as from its farmers, to put the new program across.

Brannan was scheduled to appear at a meeting of the House Agriculture Committee yesterday at 10 a. m. to go into details of his plan. The meeting was postponed at a late hour Thursday, when Committee Chairman Harold D. Cooley (D., N. C.) remembered a conflicting date.

The interest in the new proposal was demonstrated, when several hundred persons appeared at the committee room only to be turned away until Monday.

Brannan's program is a departure from the present farm price support system. Instead of supporting prices by Government purchases at a high level, Brannan would allow prices to find their own level at the retail stores. The Government then would make up the difference between the selling price and the support price in cash.

Brannan said the present program has proved unpopular with many consumers. He cited Government buying of potatoes and eggs at an outlay of more than 400 million dollars.

Aides said criticism directed at the potato and egg purchase operations would be mild compared with public attacks which would come if the Government should be required to extend the price-supporting purchases to milk and pork.

They said there is a possibility the Government may have to buy and remove from the market considerable quantities of milk and millions of pounds of pork before the end of the year in order to support producer prices.

Anticipating such a possibility, Brannan told Congress that he would like to have authority to put his new program into effect right away with regard to milk and hogs.

Eccles Sees Stability as U. S. Problem

San Francisco, April 8 (AP).—Current challenges to democratic capitalism were discussed today by Marriner S. Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board. He addressed the Commonwealth Club of California.

Eccles said the challenges arise from Russia's Communist leaders and from the failure of democratic capitalism to achieve and maintain stable economic progress.

"Sustainable economic stability is the foremost long-run problem of democratic capitalism," Eccles said. "Democracies have not yet succeeded in solving it. On the contrary, recurrent depression has been a chronic tendency of Western capitalism."

He reiterated previous statements that the Nation is in a "phase of deflationary readjustment" which is "not only inevitable but desirable after such a prolonged period of inflation."

"Our economy is being stimulated by fortuitous developments and temporary stopgaps," he continued. "We are depending on a heavier investment in certain capital goods sectors than can be sustained in steady volume. We are increasing dependence on a public subsidy through high price supports and stockpiling.

"Most important of all, we are bracing up our levels of activity by a huge military preparedness program and a world aid program, both without foreseeable terminal points as to time or amount."

Forrestal's Condition Is 'Quite Satisfactory'

The condition of James V. Forrestal, former Defense Secretary, was reported yesterday as "quite satisfactory" by Capt B. W. Hogan, acting commanding officer of the Naval Hospital, Bethesda, Md.

Forrestal entered the hospital a week ago today for a complete medical checkup. The checkup is continuing, Hogan said yesterday, and includes "a very generalized study of all the systems of the body."

Aid To China

By Mark Sullivan

Responsibility For Nationalist Plight

CHINA—that is, China as a concern to us, as a major factor in our resistance to communism—refuses to be ignored or forgotten. At the very moment when we were exulting over the Atlantic Pact, and assuming we had secured defense against communism on the European front, we were reminded of China by Winston Churchill. He had to remind us; he was giving an overall picture of the world as it is:

"Are we winning the cold war? This cannot be decided by looking at Europe alone. We must also look to Asia. The worst disaster since our victory has been the collapse of China under Communist attack and intrigue."

Within two days after Churchill reminded us, concrete proposals for help to China were made by two important sources—former Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota, now president of the University of Pennsylvania, and an exceptionally able young Senator, William F. Knowland of California. Their proposals reflected a deep concern about China, felt strongly and somberly in informed areas of thought.

Both Senator Knowland's proposal and Governor Stassen's have to do with making American funds available to the part of China not yet overrun by the Communists. Both take the China situation as it exists today—they must, of course, and every present proposal about China must. But if we are limited in what we can concretely do in the present stage, our thought about China should take in the whole scope—how the present situation arose, the obligation we are under to China, as well as the urgency of helping China in our own interest.

ABOUT this, although thoughtful leaders know it well, there is on the part of the public widespread incompleteness of understanding. Some of this is due to preoccupation with the swift and compelling urgency of other events. The Administration, intent upon Europe, takes about China an attitude expressed as waiting until the dust settles.

Some of the incompleteness of understanding is due to reticence about discussion of foreign policy voluntarily practiced by leaders of both parties during the presidential campaign, though this is now relaxing as respects China. Governor Dewey, in his Lincoln Day speech, charged the fall of China to the Truman Administration, saying: "It was this present National Administration which supinely sat by and allowed it to happen."

But our relation to the fall of China is not adequately described by the words "allowed it to happen." Our part in the fall is not a mere failure to give help, nor is it confined to the period of the Truman Administration. The beginning of our relation to the fall of China was a step we took before the Truman Administration, while the war was still on; and the nature of that step by us was such as to make us in large part responsible for the fall of China to communism.

AT YALTA in February, 1945, President Roosevelt conferred with Marshal Stalin about Russia entering the war against Japan. (Russia had so far been only in the war against Germany.) Stalin demanded a price—that at the conclusion of the war Russia be given territory then a part of China, other territory that had been taken from China by Japan, and control of railroads and other strategc advantages at the expense of China.

To these demands Roosevelt assented, in agreements secret at the time. The status thus created was shocking. China had been with us from the beginning of the war, but now was sacrificed as the price of getting Russia to join.

There was worse. Stalin made a demand, and Roosevelt agreed to it, expressed in these words: "It is understood that the agreement . . . referred to above will require concurrence of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. The President will take measures . . . to establish this concurrence on advice from Marshal Stalin." Chiang Kai-shek must agree to concessions at the expense of China, must do it and like it.

The territory and other advantages thus acquired by Russia composed leverage and impetus for the Communist drive into China that is now at the point of success. There was another step, this during the Truman Administration. In 1946 we suspended for 18 months the shipment of arms to the Chiang Kai-shek government which we had been carrying on since the beginning of the war against Japan. The blow to the Chiang Kai-shek government was more than military. Communist propaganda was able to make it appear as if Chiang Kai-shek's resistance to the Communists did not have support by the United States.

Halifax Fight Rages 3 Hours As Police Crash Dock Pickets

Halifax, Nova Scotia, April 8 (AP).—A three-hour waterfront battle flared today when railway police broke picket ranks of the striking Canadian Seamen's Union and put 200 seamen of a rival union aboard three ships.

Police used buckshot-spraying riot guns and ax handles, CSU spokesmen charged. Police denied using firearms. At least eight persons were treated in hospitals for head injuries or buckshot wounds.

The seamen escorted aboard the ships are members of the Seafarers' International Union (AFL). The CSU called a general strike against East Coast operators a week ago for signing bargaining agreements with the SIU.

The operators' federation, which charges the CSU is Communist-dominated, refused to meet its demands for better wages and working conditions in a new contract.

Union Officials Ask Cabbies To Run Taxis, End N. Y. Strike

New York, April 8 (AP).—Union officials late today called off New York's week old taxicab strike.

Walter Brock, regional director of the Taxi Workers Organizing Committee, asked the striking drivers to return to work on the next shift.

Police had estimated 90 per cent of the city's taxis already were back on the streets before Brock's action.

In a statement directed to the drivers concerning the return to work, Brock denounced Mayor William O'Dwyer as "New York's number one double-crossing, strike-breaking mayor of all time."

The strike was called a week ago by District 50, the United Mine Workers' catch-all union which has been organizing taxi drivers. Each day that followed, however, saw more and more drivers return to work. Today, the strike was hardly more than one in principle.

Meanwhile, Mayor O'Dwyer lashed back at A. D. Lewis, brother of John L. Lewis, UMW chief and leader of the strike, who yesterday accused O'Dwyer of a conspiracy to break the strike and called him a "double-crosser."

O'Dwyer said that "Lewis' statement couldn't be farther from the truth."

"Denny Lewis come to town pretending he was half-horse and half-bear. Like every small town bully, he was skull and bones, mostly skull. He came a month too soon. He should have come with the circus."

The union had sought recognition, pay increases, and other benefits. Employers insisted on a representation election being held among the workers by the State labor board.

1800 Hotel Workers Quit in Atlantic City

Atlantic City, N. J., April 8 (U.P.).—An estimated 1800 employes went on strike at nine plush beachfront hotels today on the eve of the annual Palm Sunday weekend influx of 250,000 visitors.

Guests carried their own baggage, office workers served as waitresses and bellhops, and hotelmen ran elevators.

Reports on how effective the walkout was varied. Union President Irving Gould said it was almost 100 per cent with 1800 bartenders, waitresses, maids, cooks, kitchen help and elevator operators out.

The hotelmen said that "many loyal employes" remained on the job, but they could not give any figures. They said they were "too busy running elevators." They did promise continued service, however.

When the walkout over a $1 daily wage increase broke, food for a luncheon for 400 members of the New Jersey Lumbermen's Association already had been cooked at the Hotel Traymore. Secretaries, stenographers, bookkeepers and even the publicity director waited on tables.

The workers are members of Local 508, Hotel and Restaurant Employes Union (AFL).

900 Liquor Salesmen Discharged in Chicago

Chicago, April 8 (AP).—About 900 wholesale liquor salesmen, some making $15,000 to $20,000 a year, were fired today in a union dispute.

An Illinois wholesale liquor Dealers' Association spokesman said it considered a strike by 70 salesmen against the Old Rose Distributing Co., is "in effect, a strike against all wholesalers."

A union spokesman called the dismissals a "lockout." Joseph O'Neill, president of Local 62 of the AFL Liquor and Wine Salesmen's Union, said the employers are violating the Taft-Hartley labor law.

The salesmen annually distribute half a billion dollars' worth of liquor to Chicago area retail outlets. Samuel L. Golan, lawyer for the association, said they average abouut $7000 a year, with some getting $20,000. But O'Neill contends they average $90 to $100 a week.

Churches Add Postal Rate Hike Protest

Protests against proposed rate increases for second class mail received support yesterday from the National Religious Publicity Council.

The council, which is composed of publicity directors of Protestant denominational and interdenominational agencies, passed a resolution supporting the protests at the final session of a two-day convention. It voiced the belief that present preferential rates are necessary for religious and nonprofit publications.

Hearings on the proposed rate hike are now being held before the Senate and House Committees on Postoffice and Civil Service. Under the proposal, publications that now receive preferential treatment would have to pay according to distance. Representatives of the religious press have testified that the hike would boost mailing costs 300 per cent in the first year.

Earlier, Representative Brooks Hays (D., Ark.) told the group that Congress has suffered from its lack of contact with church leaders. He said the church usually handles political problems with vagueness and abstraction and is unable to make its influence heard in Congress.

Miss Marjorie E. Moore, managing editor of the Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention, told the group that in a study of three newspapers it was found that Roman Catholic news was generally political in nature and national or world-wide in scope while Protestant news is usually religious and local or regional in scope.

Principal Explains Feast of Passover

The Washington Post

SYMBOLIC RITUAL — Samuel Rosenbaum (left), principal of the Hebrew Academy of Washington, 3235 O st. nw., explains the feast of Passover to Morton Taragin, 5, of 434 Ingraham st. nw. Passover, which begins at sundown Wednesday, and lasts eight days, commemorates the deliverance of the Jews from bondage in Egypt. The unleavened bread is a symbolic food eaten during Passover

Passover Rites Begin Wednesday

Jewish people throughout the world will begin their observance of Passover at sundown Wednesday.

The eight-day festival commemorates the deliverance of the children of Israel from Egyptian bondage more than 3000 years ago and also celebrates the spring barley harvest in Israel.

Special foods are served in Jewish homes during the Passover season. The first two nights are marked by a home service called the Seder, at which the Haggadah, the story of the redemption from bondage, is told.

The child's curiosity is aroused through the asking of four questions about the meaning and spirit of Passover at the beginning of the Seder. These are answered by the head of the house, who tells of the Israelites' journey to the promised land.

During the holiday Jews must abstain from leaven, and matzoh, or unleavened bread, is eaten. Other symbols of the Seder table are: A roast shank bone reminiscent of the pascal offering; moror or bitter herbs, symbolic of the suffering of the Jews in Egypt; charoset, a mixture of fruit, nuts, wine and cinnamon, a reminder of the mortar used by the Israelites in their forced labor, and a boiled egg, representing the temple offering.

The new Harrison building provides additional class rooms, kitchen and lounge facilities, church offices and a study for the minister and director of religious education. In the renovated basement of the Westminster building there are an assembly room and additional class rooms.

Second church will also launch an expanded church school program Sunday. In addition to graded departments for children and adults at 9:30 a. m., a second church school session for children 3 to 11 will be held at 11 a. m.

Faith's Abandonment Hit

Abandonment of organized religion by hundreds of thousands of American Jews has "contributed to the paganization, the demoralization, of Jewish life, of American life itself," according to Dr. Maurice N. Eisendrath, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

Such loss of faith is "the real Jewish Achilles heel which the anti-Semite has not yet discovered," Eisendrath said here recently.

Of some 2½ million Jews in New York, only about 600,000 have any active connection with organized religion, he said, nothing that such large-scale defections were common in other cities.

Warning that "no single congregation can do anything about it," Eisendrath urged support of the "mighty, dynamic missionary movement launched in the moral wastelands by the Union of Hebrew Congregations." The union is a federation of some 400 reform Jewish congregations throughout the country.

"We are establishing congregations in city after city among those who drifted apart from their synagogues and temples," he said. "And I don't know of a more powerful antidote to anti-Semitism than establishing new congregations."

"We are meeting with the most remarkable success as great numbers of people are flocking back to the fold of Judaism," Eisendrath said. He urged the Washington Hebrew Congregation, at a dinner in the Shoreham Hotel Tuesday night, to join "this veritable crusade to our people."

Threat Eases

Georgia Acts To Cap Revolt Of Teachers

Atlanta, April 8 (AP).—A threatened mass walkout of Georgia school teachers made little headway today as State officials lined up solidly to halt the rebellion.

Gov. Herman Talmadge turned down a plea for a special session of the Legislature to raise more funds for schools.

Executive Director Harold Saxon of the Georgia Education Association said a State-wide survey indicated little support for the walkout except in the Seventh Congressional District in northwest Georgia and the Eighth District in southeast Georgia.

Schools were still closed in Polk and Haralson Counties with almost 200 teachers and 6000 pupils idle. The walkouts followed overwhelming defeat by voters Tuesday of new taxes for schools.

Healing Services Listed

Meditation and healing services will be conducted Monday through Friday during Holy Week at 12:15 p. m. by Dr. Grace L. Foss at the Church of the Healing Christ, 2600 16th st. nw.

Tours of the building will be conducted from 4:30 to 6 p. m. Participants in the service will be George E. Harris, lay leader; the Rev. W. Harold Snape, Fellowship Class teacher; Dr. Clifford Homer Richmond, the pastor; Dr. Ralph D. Smith, District superintendent, and William L. Orem, jr., chairman of the building committee.

Falls Church To Get Auto, Shop Areas

Falls Church citizens last night gave general approval to a plan to set up four new business and parking areas in downtown Falls Church.

Support for the plan—presented at last night's public hearing by the City Planning Commission—came from several property owners whose land will be involved.

As explained by Commission Chairman Edward Knause, the proposal would provide off-street parking for 1200 cars on the four quadrants surrounding the intersection of Broad and Washington sts. Space for stores would front on each parking lot.

One property owner whose land would be used by one of the business areas, M. E. Church, was represented at the hearing by Attorney Lytton Gibson.

Gibson said that Church generally favors the plan and recognizes the need for it, but he thought it should be implemented gradually rather than all at once.

It was opposition from Church and other businessmen which in 1947 scuttled an earlier Planning Commission proposal along the same line.

Walter Bachrach, who owns land right at the intersection, said the plans must be adopted if "we are going to have any kind of a town."

Harry C. Butkiewicz, who operates an auto agency at 1001 Broad st., warned that "all you have to do is to delay his proposal another year and the world is going to pass us by."

City Attorney LaRue Van Meter said the land for the business and parking areas could be acquired by the business interests who want to build stores there. Or, he added, the city might ask the Virginia General Assembly to permit the establishment of a city parking authority to assess store owners for the use of the lots.

About 40 persons attended the meeting.

Caps Walloped 3d Time in Row, 94-74; Mikan Gets 35; Keiser's 68 Ties Mangrum for Lead at 143 in Masters

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

AUGUSTA, GA., APRIL 8.—On the second day of the Masters, the gallery smartened up. Lloyd Mangrum, teeing off with Johnny Palmer, pulled a following of fans the equal of the throngs commanded on the first day by Snead and Stranahan and Nelson. All of a sudden, Mangrum had become important in the tournament.

His 69 in the opening round woke 'em up. The customers were beginning to realize what his fellow pros knew all the time: that Mangrum was good watching.

POVICH

"You figure it out," said Gene Sarazen. "They come up to every big tournament and the papers are full of Snead and Hogan and Middlecoff, and Locke, and they bypass a dangerous guy like Mangrum, who wins the most of 'em. Only the pros figure that you have to beat Mangrum all the time.

"They call him the golf pros' golf pro . . . He's too smooth to be exciting to the fans who want to see Snead's long drives, or to the boby-soxers who must watch the handsome Stranahan and Middlecoff. All he does is play tremendous golf."

MANGRUM, HIMSELF, is not unhandsome. He's the only top pro with a mustache and, as Larry Robinson commented, "with that cigarette hanging limply from his lips, he looks more like a master Mississippi gambler than a golf pro. He plays golf in the same dispassionate way he might have turned a hole-card ace, in a river boat poker game."

The mustache is Mrs. Mangrum's idea. "It does something for him," she says. "As Tom Dewey proved, there's no political future for a man with a mustache, but Lloyd says his future is in golf."

Mangrum has been giving the game a pretty good whirl ever since he was discharged from the Army with a cracked-up left shoulder, a bullet hole through his chin and one knee loaded with shrapnel. That's what he got, including two Purple Hearts, for being a corporal with a recon patrol outfit on the drive across France.

IN FACT, THE Mangrum-Palmer twosome that teed off today could claim four Purple Hearts between them. Palmer was a tail-gunner in a B-29. They picked a couple of tough post-war jobs for themselves on the pro tournament circuit.

The 35-year-old Mangrum had to scramble for his 69 yesterday. He missed six greens, but he was deadly when he got on. On the seventh he holed out of a trap. Today he was scrambling, too. Missing the greens again in the gusty blow that made 'em tough. The greens were tricky, too, and Mrs. Mangrum was saying, "Lloyd tells me you have to out-smart the greens to score well."

He was talking about that later. "The speed of your putts on these greens is more important even than direction. You can leave yourself some dillies if you misjudge speed. First you figure on speed of your putts, then you allow for the roll of the green, and after you've got all that worked out, you have to be careful as hell."

Mangrum's philosophy of scoring is simple: hit those shots well, and don't give the course an even break. A little forehanded thinking doesn't hurt, either, like the time he won the Los Angeles open earlier in the year. While other pros were shivvering in the unseasonable California weather, Mangrum was comfortably warm in his inner-foundation suit of wool polka-dot pajamas.

If you're lucky it helps, too, Mangrum says. He's living today because he was a bit hard of hearing on the left side and had to bend his head slightly to hear what his buddy was saying while they were squatting in a foxhole in France. That's when a Nazi sniper's bullet passed through his helmet instead of his head. "I golf didn't teach me to keep my head down, that did," he says.

He had the biggest week any pro golfer ever had, last summer. That was when George May, the Chicago tournament angel, posted $5000 for the winner of the Tam O'Shanter open. He posted $1000 to the pro who could break the course record of 65 and when Ralph Guldahl shot a 64, May raised the prize to $2500 the next day. Mangrum shot a 63, won that prize and the tournament, went on to win the $10,000 a few days later in the Tam world championship, got a bonus for leading the nation's money winners, and cleaned up $22,500 for the week. He says he was lucky, but others say if you play his kind of golf, it helps.

Minneapolis Can Sweep Title Series Here Tonight

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

With George Mikan threatening to score a point for each of the 4919 spectators, the Minneapolis Lakers made it three straight in their world series scrapping with the Washington Capitols last night.

The 6-foot 10-inch scoring machine assembled 35 points before fouling out with nine minutes left to play. At that juncture of the game, however, the Lakers had a cozy 25-point lead and went on to wrap up what was billed as a contest by a comfortable 94 to 74, margin.

Mikan's 35 points tied a Uline Arena scoring record, which is a rather inconsequential achievement at this stage of the season. What is important and unfortunate, for the Caps, however, is that Mr. Mikanapolis will be around again tonight to help his Lakers try to concluded their sweep of the final playoff series.

The Caps weer playing without the services of Bones McKinney last night. That worthy had to pass up the tilt to be at the bedside of his sick wife in Raleigh, N. C., and the Caps can assign some of the responsibility for their rout to Bones' absence.

But it is extremely doubtful if the Caps could have done much better against the spirited Lakers, even with McKinney in the lineup.

Everyone, including the Caps, had their eyes on Mikan, but gorgeous George had eyes only for the baskets. By the end of the first half, he had potted, hooked and tapped in 25 points, four less than the entire Cap roster.

He added seevn more in the third quarter and touched off his performance with three more points before fouling out when the fourth quarter was barely under way.

The listless, spiritless Caps mustered only one offense and that took them only to within nine points of their oppressors. The Eastern Division champions, on the verge of collapse in Minneapolis Wednesday, completed their downfall last night.

They simply couldn't do anything right. They trailed the Lakers out of the dressing room and stayed behind them all night long. The shooting—even from the free throw line—was pathetic. Kleggie Hermsen, for instance, made only six out of 11 free throws, missing three in a row in the first quarter.

What little scoring the Caps did was accomplished by Jack Nichols and Matt Zunic, who evenly divided 24 points.

The Lakers had a monopoly on the backboards, offensively and defensively. When the Caps missed a shot—which was frequently—either Jim Pollard or Mikan would reclaim the ball. This set in motion a Minneapolis fast break which sent either Swede Carlson or Herm Schaefer zooming by the tired Cap guard and before you knew it one of the two had the ball an dwas dribbling in for a layup, completely unattended.

Pollard in High Gear

The Lakers scored 18 points this way.

Pollard, a great ball player last night, made four length-of-the-court passes to Schaefer or Carlson who turned each of the accurate pitches into baskets. In addition, the former Stanford luminary rammed in 18 points, second only to the incomparable Mikan.

The Caps were six points in arrears before the game was three minutes old. Matter of fact, they hadn't even scored at that stage. But Nichols prevented a shutout with a hook shot. This proved a bad piece of strategy by the Caps because three minutes later Mikanapolis owned a 14-point lead.

By the end of the first quarter, it was 26 to 14 and by halftime it was 43 to 29.

Zunic, Dick Schulz and Sonny Hertzberg, who went the route for the Caps, fired up a six-point rally in the second quarter to whittle Minneapolis' lead down to a mere nine points. But Mikan and Co. took over again, scoring nine points while holding the Caps scoreless.

The Caps trailed by 25 points four times. Most of the time, however, their deficit ranged from 12 to 20 points, depending on the mood of Mikan.

Worsham Does Better, Shoots 75

Augusta, Ga., April 8.—Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., and Washington, D. C., improved a little today with a 75 in the second round of the Masters championship.

Worsham had 76 the first day, now totals 151 for the 36 holes, eight shots behind the leaders. Lew played par golf for the first nine today, despite a fat six on the par 4 seventh hole. He bounced back with birds on the eighth and ninth to turn in 36.

But old man bogey got him on Nos. 10, 16 and 17 on the back nine for a 39, three over, hurting his chances of finishing among the tournament's low scorers.

35-Foot Putt On 18th Hole Keeps Lloyd In Contention

By Bus Ham
Post Reporter

Augusta, Ga., April 8.—Herman Keiser, one-time storekeeper in the Navy, slipped in with a 68, 4 under par, today and tied Lloyd Mangrum for the lead in the Masters golf championship with a 36-hole score of 143.

Keiser was given so little attention by the tournament critics that he went around the course on another blustery day with little or no gallery. His playing partner, Bob Hamilton, registered from Landover, Md., had 79 for a two-day total of 156.

Keiser was out in 34 and back in 34, 2 under par on each side, and had posted his score while Mangrum and the other favorites were still whacking away.

Keiser's 68 was the lowest score shot thus for in this thirteenth annual championship, and you might say that he owes it all to three aspirin tablets a day.

Middlecoff Prescribes Relief

In recent tournaments on the professional circuit, Keiser has played poorly. His right arm, broken when he was a boy, pained him when he swung at the ball.

Recently he told his troubles to the father of Cary Middlecoff, young Memphis dentist and one of the better young pros.

The elder Middlecoff prescribed aspirin with a pinch of baking soda as a cure for what Keiser thinks was arthritis. It works so well he didn't feel a twinge today.

On the first nine, Keiser sank putts of 35 and 76 feet for birdies on the first and eighth holes. On the back nine, he rammed in a 15-footer on No. 11, a six-footer on No. 15 and tapped in a six-inch putt on No. 17 to bring his bag of birdies to five for the day.

His only bogey was on No. 10, when he went into a sandtrap.

Keiser, who calls Springfield, Mo., his home and won the Masters in 1946 would have stood alone at the head of the feld of 58 except for a sensational putt by Mangrum on the 18th hole.

35-Foot Putt

On the edge of the hillside green 35 feet from the cup, Mangrum boldly rolled the ball straight for the hole. It hit the back of the cup with a thump, jumped up and fell in for a birdie.

This gave the stylish Texan, now playing out of the Tam O'Shanter Club, Chicago, a 74, two over par, to go with his opening round of 69.

Mangrum played today with Johnny Palmer, a solidly built lad from Badin, N. C., and the kid from the Carolinas gave Mangrum a lesson for nine holes.

With a 73 the first day to Mangrum's 69, Palmer was four shots off the pace when they went out with one of the day's largest galleries in pursuit.

Palmer played the first nine in 33, three under par, and missed a 3-foot putt on the third hole. Mangrum was out in 38, and Palmer found himself with a one-stroke lead going into the second nine.

Over that stretch, Palmer slipped to a 38. He failed to down two dinky putts that duffers call

Rieder Only Area Boxer to Reach Finals

East Lansing, Mich., April 8.—Eddie Rieder, Maryland's powerful 155-pound puncher, moved into the NCAA boxing finals by scoring a technical knockout over Minnesota's Dick Newberg here tonight.

Rieder was the only Washington, D. C., area fighter to make the grade. Falling by the wayside tonight were Tom Cronin and Jack Redmond, Catholic U.; Maryland's Paul Kostopoulos and Basil Miragliotta, Virginia's quarterfinal survivor.

Biggest surprise was Cronin's loss, his first in 13 bouts this season. The fighting 125-pounder put up a ferocious scrap but lost a split decision to Wilbert Moss, LSU.

Little Cronin still has a chance to make the finals, despite tonight's setback. In winning, Moss suffered an elbow injury and he may not be able to continue. If he can't, Cronin, who eliminated Wisconsin's Steve Gremban, last year's 119-pound champ, will fill the finalist spot.

Catholic's Jack Redmond, popular choice after having had to wage two bouts to get into the semi-finals, lost a close decision to Idaho's Norm Walker

Kostopoulos, Terp 135-pounder, lost to Michigan State's Pat Dougherty in one of the best fought matches in the tourney. Earlier in a dual match, Kostopoulos beat Dougherty but the gritty Greek from College Park was missing tonight.

Basil Miragliotta, 145, was ousted by Charley Davey, three-time National champ. The Michigan State battler is unbeaten in four years of college boxing. Davey seeks his fourth title tomorrow night against Wisconsin's Don Dickinson.

Leafs Beat Detroit

Detroit, April 8 (AP).—Joe Klukay's overtime goal gave the defending Stanley Cup champions Toronto Maple Leafs a 3 to 2 victory over the Detroit Red Wings tonight in the first game of their best-of-seven cup finals.

Nats Play Phillies Tonight Under Lights at Chattanooga

Special to The Post

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 8.—The Nats, who'll do most of their American League campaigning under the lights of Griffith Stadium, get the first taste of night activity for 1949 here tomorrow evening against the Phillies.

Ray Scarborough, odds on choice to hurl the opener for the Nats, will start against the Phils and will probably be allowed to go as long as he can.

Robin Roberts, Philadelphia rookie, will oppose Washington's top righthander.

After the Phillies game tomorrow night the Nats tackle their Chattanooga farmhands Sunday and then continue the trek northward with the Phillies providing the competition most of the way.

The Washingtonians return to Griffith Stadium April 14 and take on the Brooklyn Dodgers there that evening.

Colonials Beat Furman, 6-5

Shortstop Chet Pietras' one-handed pickup of Bill Kerr's hot grounder with the bases loaded choked off a ninth-inning Furman rally and preserved a 6-5 victory for George Washington yesterday at the Mount Vernon High Stadium in Alexandria.

The Colonials had just pulled ahead in the eighth on Frank Cavallo's single, his stolen base and Johnny Yednock's single.

However, G. W. Pitcher Pete Cordelli weakened with two out in the ninth. He pitched singles to Pinch-hitters Bill Metcalf and Jim Smith, and then hit Jim O'Shields to fill the bases. But Pietras grabbed and threw him out to end the game.

Foster Whips Chuck Taylor

Chicago, April 8 (AP).—VinceFoster, Nebraska wildcat, was awarded an unpopular split decision over Chuck Taylor, ex-coal miner of Coalport, Pa., in a bloody 10 round battle in the Chicago Stadium tonight.

Referee Johnny Behr voted for the surprising Taylor, while the two judges gave the honors to Foster by a very slight margin.

The victory moved the 22-year-old Foster closer to a title showdown with Ray "Sugar" Robinson, world's welterweight champion. Robinson viewed tonight's encounter from a ringside seat.

The 11,594 spectators, who paid a $51,477 gate, were not at all in accord with the views of the judges and lustily booed the decision.

Robinson, Gavilan To Meet for Title

Chicago, April 8 (U.P.)—Ray "Sugar" Robinson, ignoring the exclusive contract the 20th Century Club of New York holds for his services, said today he had signed with the Tournament of Champions to defend his welterweight championship against Kid Gavilan of Cuba.

The announcement probably will precipitate a court battle with the 20th Century.

Bones Returns Tonight; Ill Wife Improving

Bones McKinney will rejoin the Caps tonight. The angular forward missed last night's game because of the illness of his wife, but left Raleigh, N. C., at midnight for Washington after doctors had assured him that Mrs. McKinney was better.

The Caps sorely missed their stellar forward last night, particularly under the backboards where George Mikan and Jim Pollard reclaimed practically every rebound.

Hoyas Win, 8-6, Over Harvard

Georgetown University baseball team won its fourth game in five starts yesterday at the Hilltop as it halted a Harvard rally for an 8-6 triumph.

Hughie Murphy, sophomore southpaw, saved the game for starting pitcher Tommy Flynn in the ninth. Two Harvard runs were in and the bases were loaded with one out when Murphy went in. He forced the last two batters to pop up.

Chandler Meets In Cincinnati With National Clubs

Cincinnati, April 8 (AP).—Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler and heads of National League clubs met here to discuss suits brought by players and problems growing out of the baseball reserve clause.

There was no announcement at the conclusion of the session, and it was said there will not be one at this time.

Also taking part in the conference were Ford Frick, president of the National League; John Lord O'Brian, attorney representing the commissioner; Louis Carroll, National League lawyer, and Graham Claytor, Washington, associated with O'Brian.

Braves Officials Deny Players Revolt Stories; Browns Beat Cubs; Ted Homers, Bosox Romp

Boston, April 8 (AP).—The Boston Braves top front office officials, with the exception of absent Lou Perini, the club's president, tonight joined forces in denying that their players were feuding with Manager Billy Southworth.

Perini was said to be in Columbus, Ohio, on a business trip.

"Reports of dissension are a complete surprise to me," said General Manager John Quinn.

"The confidence of the front office in Southworth is 100 per cent."

Boston Record Columnist Dave Egan, who started the rumpus by writing that the Braves were "on the verge of open revolt" against Southworth, dismissed the official denials thusly:

"The sad part about it (the alleged revolt) is that it is the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth."

Southworth, in Columbia, S. C., said: "All I can say is the whole thing is a lie. We had a players' meeting at Savannah before the game and I'll say for the record right now that no manager and his players ever had a better and more sincere meeting."

Browns Win, 4-2 As Cub Series Ends

Dallas, Tex., April 8 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns finished their 11-game spring exhibition tour with the Chicago Cubs today with a 4-2 triumph.

The Browns took a 3-2 lead in the eighth. Singles by Priddy and Graham and Pitcher Dutch Leonard's slow handling of a bunt filled the bases. Lolar's single scored two runs and another scored on Smalley's error.

Williams belted his terrific homer—his second of the exhibition season—over the right centerfield fence with Johnny Pesky on base in the fourth inning. Williams and Birdie Tebbets each drove in four runs during the afternoon.

Bowie Ends Today With $10,000 Race

Bowie Md., April 8.—This southern Maryland track winds up its highly successful 12-day spring meeting today with a program of seven route races and one 6-furlong handicap event. The top contest is the $10,000 added Southern Maryland Handicap.

Of the eight overnight candidates in the 1 mile and one sixteenth test, six of the handicap performers were members of last week's Bowie Handicap which was won by Claude C. Tanner's Nearway.

The son of Ladysman has accounted for two fixtures at the session and he will probably be favored to make a clean sweep of his stake engagement at Bowie.

The 4-year-old is undefeated this year and there are quite a few members of the betting fraternity who hold that the southern Maryland distance may prove too much for the Tanner color-bearer. He picks up 3 pounds off his last effort and will be high weight of the field.

George M. Jacobson's Big Dial was beaten by a neck by Nearway in their last meeting but the Washington-owned horse is in receipt of an additional 2 pounds this afternoon which may well be his margin of victory.

HAIGHT.

Lynchburg Beats Catholic U., 5 to 4

Lynchburg, April 8 (AP):—The Lynchburg College baseball team remained undefeated in Mason-Dixon Conference play when it trimmed Catholic University 5-4 here today.

Eighth-inning singles by Johnny Broaddus and Bne Divers, after two batters had been retired, pushed over a tie-breaking run for the victory. Bob Hallissery hit a home run for the visitors.

Bullfield Ridden to Neck Victory

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Bowie, Md., April 8.—Logan Batcheller and Benny Civitello, two of 1949's leading apprentices, divided honors on a featureless program before 9000 fans today. Each of the youngsters won two races but Batcheller hung a neck defeat on Bootin' Benney in their only personal clash of the afternoon—a thrilling battle to the wire in the seventh event.

Batcheller, on Mrs. Jack Goodwin's Bullfield, whipped the 3-year-old home ahead of Civitello aboard C. B. Carter's Speaker after the pair struggled head and head from eighth pole to the wire. Two and a half lengths farther back was Mrs. M. E. Murphy's Freshman to be third in the field of eight going a mile and a sixteenth.

Bullfield, a previous winner here, paid a healthy $18.20 mutuel and was clocked in 1:50 3-5 over a track made dull by a typical April shower just before the program began.

Neither Batcheller nor Civitello was prominent with Air Mount until the stretch run. Logan brought Bullfield between horses while Benny came to the outside with Speaker.

The leaders up to this point weakened and Bullfield and Speaker went into strenuous drives. Speaker had the best of it a sixteenth from the wire but Batcheller went to the whip and Bullfield responded.

The two victories for Civitello brought his total for the meeting to 21. Batcheller, who led the riders at Tropical, tied Steve Brooks at Hialeah and was battling with Eldon Nelson when he left Gulfstream Park, turned in victories six and seven.

Benny won the third race with Morton Newmyer's Dr. Roche, a $5.20 favorite, and came back in the fourth to put up a strong finish to score with A. Klee's Pirate Gold, paying a formidable $22.40 mutuel.

Batcheller's first win came in the sixth test. W. I. Jones' Turnabout, making her fourth start of the meeting, finally got home. Turnabout, saddled by C. A. Canford of Washington, paid $10.

Turner Boxers Try Headgear

The new boxing "head protector," recently approved for professional matches by the National Boxing Association, will be used at Monday night's show at Joe Turner's Arena.

Matchmaker Gabe Menendez announced that two of the fighters on the card of four eight-round bouts, would be asked to volunteer to use the unique devices designed to protect the fighters from cuts and possible concussion.

It was also announced that Pat Thomas, District Golden Gloves featherweight champion, who made a big hit in the New York Inter-City finals recently, would turn professional on the Monday card. He will fight a four-rounder against Kid Cecil. Thomas is handled by the veteran Harry Groves.

Secured as an opponent for Art Llanos, the Puerto Rican flash, for one of the eights was Jimmy Watkins, former New York Golden Gloves bantam titleholder. Llanos beat Johnny Arduini and Lou Yonkers, fought a thriller with Jimmy Cooper. In other eights Holly Mims, who twice licked Gene Harley will take on local rival "Sonny Boy" Gunn; Julian Keene will oppose Al Wright and Herbit (Biff) Jones will fight Johnny Castor of Baltimore.

Middleburg Race Attracts 11 Today

By Harry De Mawby, Jr.

Middleburg, Va., April 8.—The twenty-sixth running of the Louie Leith Cup tomorrow at the Glenwood Park race course has attracted 11 top-flight nominees for the feature of the Middleburg Hunt Association's twenty-eighth annual spring meeting.

The grueling 4-mile timber race for 4-year-olds and up has lured four recent winners of cross-country events.

Some Gold, surprise winner of the King Haiglar in Camden, S. C., in March will start for Paul Butler, Hinsdale, Ill.; Alvin Untermeyer, New York City, will send his imported Carolina Cup winner Done Sleeping postward; Eugene Weymouth, Greenville, Del., will ride his Cormac to try for a repeat performance of his victory in last week's Deep Run Hunt Steeplechase in Richmond, and Dr. S. H. Roger's Lord Loudon, Piedmont point-to-point victor, will be out for successive victories from his Leesburg, Va., stable.

Four other events are on the program for the first of a two-day meeting with 62 entries.

Post time for this two-day meeting, which will be concluded on Saturday, April 16, is 2:30 p. m.

AT BOWIE

Apprentice Benny Civitello is the champ here as far as the number of winners is concerned, but the top "meany" rider is Nunzio Pariso. Although little known hereabouts, he has been riding for nine years and in 1940 won the rich American Handicap. Rode his first winner May 5, 1938, at Churchill Downs and has performed mostly on the West Coast, New England and New Orleans. Pariso has won three races but two of them came aboard Nearway in the Rowe Memorial and Bowie Handicaps, both $10,000 races. In addition, he was second in the $7500 Kindergarten Stakes with Sickle Flight. On the final program, Pariso, a Buffalo (N. Y.) boy, shoots for his third stake aboard the aforementioned Nearway in the $10,000 Southern Maryland Handicap. See you on the rail. BILL

Mighty Mo Shows Terps How to Go; Tucker Stars, Too

Led by Halfback Ed (Mighty Mo) Modzelewski and Quarterback Joe Tucker, the Old Liners walloped the Terps in Maryland's weekly intrasquad football scrimmage yesterday, six touchdowns to two.

Quarterback Tucker threw two touchdown passes to Captain Fred Davis. Mighty Mo raced for another couple of scores. Modzelewski scooted 40 yards on one dash and returned a punt 60 yards for another tally.

MASTERS—From Pg. 10

Keiser, Mangrum Tied for Golf Lead

"gimies," and he twice failed to get down in two from the edge of greens.

Palmer Alone at 144

Palmer's 71 for a two-day total of 144 left him alone at that figure and in excellent challenging position for the third round of 18 holes Friday.

Byron Nelson, twice winner of the Masters, let the newer crop of pros know that the oldtimers still were in the running.

Nelson, playing with his fellow Texan, Jimmy "Rainbow" Demaret, came through with a 70, two under par, to stand at 145 with four others.

Tied with Nelson were Freddie Haas, New Orleans, who trimmed his score from 75 to 70 today; Jim Turnesa, New York, 73-72; Clayton Haefner, Charlotte, N. C., 71-74, and Joe Kirkwood, jr., California amateur, 73-72.

Nelson might have easily cut two strokes off his score but for momentary slips on the ninth and eighteenth holes. These are companion holes, 430 and 435 par fours, with sloping hillside greens.

On the ninth Byron amazed the galleries b missing a 2-foot putt. On the eighteenth, his second went to the back side of the green and he failed to get down in 2.

Kirkwood was the day's biggest surprise. Son of the old trick shot player, young Kirkwood plays the part of Joe Palooka in the movies, is blond haired and built like a tackle for the University of Southern California.

He was almost unnoticed as he came home with a 72 to top Frank Stranahan, British amateur champion, and the other amateurs with 145. Stranahan, next to Mangrum the first day with 70, skidded to 77 for 147.

Chick Harbert, long hitter from Detroit, maintained his steady pace, adding a second 73 to hold the 146 spot alone.

At 147 with Stranahan were Dick Metz, Virginia Beach, Va.; Horton Smith, veteran now out of Detroit, and Johnny Bulla, Pittsburgh.

Still dangerous at 148 were such big names as Demaret, twice Masters champion, and Sammy Snead, Bobby Locke of South Africa, Claude Harmon, New York, the defending champion; Herman Baron, another New Yorker; the veteran Johnny Revolta, and Leland Gibson, Kansas City.

There doesn't appear to be much of a chance for anyone above 148.

Monroe Hurls 2d One-Hitter

Don Jung's pinch-hit triple with two out in the eighth ruined Stan Monroe's bid for a non-hitter, but Stan and his Washington-Lee High teammates settled for a 12-0 victory over Montgomery Blair yesterday in Arlington.

It was the second straight W-L victory, and Monroe's second straight one-hit shutout. John Hummon paced the Generals' batting attack with a double and two singles.

Although he gave up 11 hits, Tom Blydes of St. John's, pitched a shutout against Sidwell Friends, 3-0, on the loser's field. Tom gallagher led the St. John's attack with three hits.

St. Paul's Wins, 7-5

Maryland Host In Area Title Shooting Today

The University of Maryland is one of 11 schools which are hosts to the National Intercollegiate Rifle championships today. The Terps are favored to take the crown away from Navy.

Shooting with the Terps at College Park are George Washington, Catholic, Penn and Penn State. Their scores will be compared with those on ranges at Alabama, California, Nebraska, Colorado, UCLA, Coast Guard Academy, Columbia, Northwestern, Texas A. and M., Oklahoma T. and M. and Washington State.

Drawing much of the attention will be Maryland's Arthur Cook, Olympic small-bore champion, who is trying for the third time to win his first national collegiate title.

In 1947, a Terp teammate, Walter Nowling enjoyed a hot streak and nipped Cookie for the honor, 287-286. Last year, Art tied GW's Thomas Moncure with 288, but Moncure outranked the 21-year-old Terp on the basis of a higher score in the difficult standing position.

Penicillin Test On Gonorrhea Pleases Navy

The Navy has tested oral penicillin against gonorrhea infections in sailors on shore leave and is at least partly satisfied with the results, it was disclosed yesterday.

The research team which conducted the experiment, however, recommended that future tests employ more potent doses of the drug, and that the drug be taken sooner after exposure.

The project, conducted last June and July among volunteers of an unspecified fleet at an undesignated seaport area, was reported out yesterday by V. W. H. Campbell, W. J. Dougherty and C. E. Curtis, all of the Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery. Findings were presented to a symposium on venereal diseases held here under auspices of the United States Public Health Service.

The test involved the voluntary swallowing of penicillin of 200,000-unit dosage strength by each of nearly 3000 volunteers just prior to going on shore leave. On the men's return to ship, 1059 were unknowingly relegated to an "experimental group," another 1021 were formed into a "control group," and the rest were weeded out for sundry reasons.

The "experimental group" members were given another dosage of 200,000-unit swallows, and the "control group" got placebos, or fake doses. The final result disclosed that a 58 per cent reduction in infections was noted among those men who took penicillin both before and after shore leave, Commander Dougherty reported.

He concluded, however, that higher dosages, perhaps up to 400,000-unit strength penicillin, should be used in future tests, and that something be done to enable men on leave to take postexposure prophylaxis sooner than the average elapsed time of 15 hours noted in the fleet test.

White Blood Cells Isolated

salvage of the white blood cells was first accomplished at the Harvard laboratory about four months ago. Since then, he said, researchers have been perfecting the collection technique, and the new blood derivative is "about ready for clinical investigation."

Heretofore, he said, the white cells were damaged or lost in the blood-letting processes in contact with the metal needle, the rubber tubing, and the glass receptacle. This was overcome by using plastic needles, plastic tubing, and either plastic bottle or glass bottles specially treated to give them "non-wetting" qualities. Moreover, he said, the donated blood is centrifuged and broken down to its component parts within one hour of the blood-letting. The white cells sorted out have been saved in storage without apparent damage and probably can be preserved indefinitely, he said.

Speaking of the present and future uses of blood and blood derivative therapy, Dr. Diamond said physicians are wasting the Nation's blood with use of whole blood where only blood parts are needed. Twenty blood donations, as whole blood, are useful for only 20 or less patients, whereas, when fractionated and the derivatives used for specific conditions, the same number of donations might serve 2000 or more patients, he said.

He also cautioned anesthesiologists against undue use of blood transfusion, particularly for "mere cosmetic reasons because you don't like the color of the face") in patients under anesthesia. Danger of improper transfusions are greater when the patient can't complain, he pointed out.

When blood fractionation programs reach full swing, Dr. Diamond said, the blood laboratories may be able to freely supply blood derivatives that will lighten many childhood ills, such as mumps and measles; decrease the pregnancy dangers of German measles, and furnish blood fibrin (to aid blood clotting) in surgical cases.

Seeks Divorce

Wife of F. D. Roosevelt, Jr., Goes to Reno

Reno, Nev., April 8 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., arrived in Reno today by plane.

Attorney George Springmeyer said she intended to establish residence for divorce.

Nevada law permits divorce action after six weeks of residence.

While in this vicinity, Mrs. Poosevelt will visit an aunt, Mrs. Carl Messelt, who lives near Minden.

Reservations for Mrs. Roosevelt were made at a ranch near Carson City under another name (Mrs. Ethel Pyle, the United Press said.)

In New York, Roosevelt said, "I never discuss my private affairs in public."

Mrs. Roosevelt is the former Ethel duPont, munitions heiress. They were married in Wilmington, Del., June 30, 1937.

The couple has two children, Franklin D., 3d, born July 19, 1938, and Christopher, born December 22, 1941.

Roosevelt only recently announced his candidacy for the U. S. House of Representatives to fill a vacancy created by the death of Representative Sol Bloom.

The divorce would be the fifth among the five children of the late President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

All the other children except John Roosevelt have been divorced at least once. John was married in 1938 and he and his wife, the former Anne Clark, have two children.

The only girl of the family, Anna Eleanor, was divorced from Curtis Dall and married John Boettiger. James Roosevelt married Betty Cushing, divorced her and married Nurse Romelle Schneider.

served notice that he will fight the recommendation to drop the "fair net operating income" guide to rent adjustment.

He said the section spelled the same kind of rent control for Washington that Congress voted the rest of the country.

He said he was the only one of the six conferees who voted against dropping his plan. Senator McCarthy added:

"The conference took the position that the National (rent control) bill was good for the rest of the country, but might result in rent increases in Washington."

"I think it is completely dishonest for this Congress to weaken rent controls for every city in the Nation except Washington where the Congressmen and their office help are renters."

Other conference actions confirmed by the House would:

1. Establish controls for converted housing after April 1, 1949. Housing accommodations created by conversions after that date would be subject to rent ceilings, unless the rent administrator took the control off by a specific order. By such orders, he could take the control off wherever he found that a conversion resulted in additional "self-contained family units."

The administrator could not restore controls to housing units now free of them as a result of last year's change in the law decontrolling conversions. But after April 1, he could keep the lid on housing where only minor conversions are made.

2. Protect tenants against eviction from apartments in buildings taken over by cooperatives, unless 65 per cent of tenants in occupancy had joined the coop before it took over the building. The section, however, protects the right of a coop apartment buyer, who had entered the coop setup before March 1, 1949, to get possession of his apartment by court action.

3. Decontrol hotels of less than 50 rooms in line with earlier action which took controls off the larger hotels.

4. Forbid recontrol of housing accommodations previously decontrolled.

Cogswell, asked for comment last night, said he felt the bill still provides a workable rent control law for Washington. He said, however, that the "fair net operating income" formula for fixing rents had spelled a complete bogging down of rent control administration here. He said operation with the "fair net income" formula would have led to endless controversy about the values of property. He said this was the main pitfall of the local rent control law in the First World War period, and was deliberately avoided in setting up the present act.

He said that dropping out the criminal penalties weakens the law by raising a doubt whether means are left to compel landlords to apply for rent ceilings when they change unfurnished housing units to furnished units, or when they place an old building on the rental market for the first time.

For such housing, he said, the way would be open to landlords to charge anything they want, but "I do feel the majority of landlords are honest, law-abiding citizens and there will be no mass movement to evade rent ceilings."

He said the criminal penalties had been used in the past in cases where landlords had refused to file for fixing of rent ceilings. He said responsiblity for applying for a rent ceiling rests on the landlord, not on the tenant. He said it was possible court action could be invoked to compel individual landlords to file applications for rent ceilings.

Ex-Teacher Snarled Her Own Home Economics, Mate Says

Mrs. Geraldine Harmon Mills, 29, a former home economics teacher in Stuart Junior High High School, snarled up the economics i.. her own home, it was charged in District Court yesterday.

The charge was made by Mrs. Mills' est anged husband, John, 31, a former history teacher at the same school, in defending himself against cruelty charges brought by his wife in a suit for a limited divorce.

Mills asserted his wife was under the "domination" of her father, Gregory Harmon, Interstate Commerce Commission attorney, and made monthly payments of $100 to Harmon, leaving the household in such poor financial shape Mills had to borrow from a loan agency.

Mrs. Mills, a demure brunette, in her testimony, replied that she owed money to her father for educational expenses advanced her. She denied the payments were as large as $100 and said anyway she stopped them after talking with a priest to whom she and her husband had gone for advice.

She also charged her husband:

1. Kept her awake nights by pacing the floor and demanding when she was going back to work.

2. Carried a revolver everywhere, placed seven locks on the back door and 3 on the front door at 437 Mellon st. se., their former home, and barricaded the windows with heavy "rat wire."

3. Beat her a number of times.

She admitted under cross-examination the wiring and other safety precautions followed an apparent attempt of someone to break into their apartment.

The couple was married in Leonardtown, Md., December 31, 1945, and separated finally April 16, 1947. The trial will be continued Monday before Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts.

5500 in FHA Face Payless Vacations Unless Congress Acts

Federal Housing Administration will be "broke" Wednesday Its 5500 employes—1500 are in this city—are faced with payless vacations and paydays.

All of the agency's employes were notified yesterday that funds were available to pay their salaries through Wednesday, April 13. Unless Congress approves new operating funds before that deadline, the employes were told that they could do what they wish—report for work as usual, go on annual leave, or leave without pay.

The best guess is that just about all of the employes will turn up at their desks Thursday morning and that the slow-pokey Senate will eventually get around to approving additional funds for the agency. The memo to employes stressed that no lay-off or leave without pay was being ordered.

The House weeks ago approved a four-million-dollar deficiency for FHA. The Senate Appropriations Committee upped the figure to $4,800,000 to prevent FHA layoffs. And there the matter stands as the Senate talks and talks.

INTERNAL REVENUE BUREAU wants to hire 1476 additional employes between now and June 30. The President asked the Congress to appropriate $724,000 for that purpose. His request, however, was rejected by the House Appropriations Committee.

The House committee previously okayed 1500 additional Revenue employes for the 1950 fiscal year which begins on July 1. In its report, it said there was no justification for advancing the recruiting date. Revenue officials are appealing to the Senate.

CSC: Former Chairman Robert Ramspeck of the House Civil Service Committee, has high-level support to be appointed president of the Civil Service Commission. He might be interested if Congress passes the bill to raise the salaries of Federal officials. Ramspeck resigned from Congress to take an executive position with the Air Transport Association because of its attractive salary.

RECLASSIFICATION: Chairman Tom Murray of the House Civil Service Committee will introduce his long-awaited revision of the Classification Act on Monday. His bill will be similar to the Administration plan of a year ago. Meantime, the Administration is doing another redraft of his plan in order to tie it in with the executive pay bill now before the House.

RULE: This is the rule limiting the number of members in one family who can work in the Government. It provides that not more than two members of a family may hold PERMANENT jobs in the Federal Civil Service at the same time. The Attorney General has ruled that "members of family" in this sense refers to those who live under the same roof with the head of the family.

When members of the family become heads of new families they cease to be part of the father's family. For example, married sons and daughters are ordinarily not members of the father's family even though they have returned to live with the father.

NOTES: Another discussion of the Hoover personnel recommendations will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Archives Auditorium by the Society for Personnel Administration. Discussion leaders will be Dr. James R. Watson of the National Civil Service League; Thomas D. Morris, an author of the Hoover personnel report, and Thomas J. Graves of the Senate Appropriations Committee staff . . . A conference on Government and business relations will be held today at the Wardman Park. The Harvard Business School Club is sponsoring it . . . Agriculture's NFFE branch has elected these officers: C. E. Myers, president; Guy H. Stewart, Emily E. Clark and Charles Remington, vice presidents, and May Hall and Nellie Ramussen, secretaries.

JOB: Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics is anxious to hire an aeronautical engineer ($4479 to start) to review, revise and insure engineering accuracies of books of instruction on the operation and service of naval aircraft. Get further details in Room 3915, Main Navy Building.

Holsinger Given Term In 'Hearts' Club Fraud

Jeweler to Serve 20 to 60 Months; Jenkins Sentenced In Hospital Theft

Maurice P. Holsinger, 42, a jeweler who capitalized on the gullibility of "lonely-hearts" club members, was sentenced yesterday to serve from 20 months to 5 years in prison for mail fraud.

Holsinger was accused in District Court under a grand jury indictment of sending letters to members of the American Social Club of Philadelphia in which he posed as a highly eligible widower, as a graduate of Columbia University and as a wealthy businessman with valuable real estate.

According to the Government, Holsinger, who once resided in Mount Rainier, Md., received more than $8500 from the women in his phony marriage proposals. He was arrested after he had gone to Hollywood, posed as an FBI agent, and obtained services of a makeup studio to pose as a woman and paid for the cosmetics with a rubber $112 check.

In another embezzlement case, Frank K. Jenkins, 35, of 8341 Colesville rd., Silver Spring, Md., received a two to six-year prison term for taking more than $40,000 from the Columbia Hospital, where he had been a bookkeeper. He told police he lost the bulk of the money by gambling.

Louis Bonbrest, 46, of 254 Portland st. se., was given one to three years' imprisonment for embezzlement and grand larceny in gray-market used-car transactions.

Bonbrest was arrested after he shot himself. A barber by trade, he had gone into the used-car business from a trailer office.

Gerald (Jerry) O'Day, 50, of the Harris Hotel, was given a suspended one to three-year sentence and placed on probation for swindling a client out of $1000.

O'Day, a bail bondsman, was charged with wrongfully keeping money that had been given as security by Robert Melton, alias Bronslaus Matuszak, of Baltimore, in a criminal case that resulted in Melton's acquittal.

Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut made the probation contingent on O'Day's making full restitution in this and two other cases.

Woman Given 5-20 Years For Sweetheart Murder

Alice Lucille Logan, 22-year-old former cigar store clerk, was sentnced yesterday to serve from 5 to 30 years in prison for second-degree murder of her sweetheart, William Green, 35.

Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut of District Court sentenced Miss Logan after she was characterized as a "country girl who was just too naive for city life." She resided at 727 Quebec pl. nw., according to police.

Green, a postal clerk and former prize fighter, was shot three times November 11 as he fled from a room they once ocupied jointly. Miss Logan pleaded self-defense, contending that Green attempted to get her to indulge in an unconventional sex act.

In another homicide case, William H. Warren, 44, of 4819 41st st. nw., was given four to 12 years' imprisonment for manslaughter. He was found guilty of fatally bludgeoning Reuben A. Stewart, 52, 4825 41st st. nw, with a baseball bat during an argument, according to police, over whether a woman should smoke while cooking breakfast.

James M. Tonker, 44, a truck driver, of 701 6th st. sw., was given three to nine years in prison for forcing his two small stepchildren, 7 and 9 years of age, to perform an indecent act.

Samuel B. Stengel, 50, a house painter, also received three to nine years for taking liberties with a 9-year-old boy after luring him with an offer of $1.25.

Edward Gales, 42, a laborer, was given 5 to 15 years for fatally shooting his landlady, Mary Lee Mobley, 44, also known as Mary Jane Lee of 504 L st. sw., after a drinking bout.

Carl J. Hall, 22, of 231 8th st. sw., was given two to eight years for forcing his 19-year-old wife, mother of a 9-month-old child, to engage in prostitution.

Miss Mary Stuart Hayes, 25, a honey-haired, chic woman who left a trail of bad checks behind her, received eight months to two years in jail. She pleaded guilty to forging more than $300 in checks here, and had been dubbed the "Lady in Red" by police because of her garb.

Wearing a svelte black dress yesterday, she left the prisoners' dock and stood like a clothes model to receive her sentence.

7-Month-Old Boy Falls Into Hot Water

A seven-month-old child suffered second-degree burns on the back and right shoulder yesterday morning when he rolled from a bed into a pan of hot water.

The child, Tyrone Belt, son of Mrs. Helen Belt, 19, of 323 Dixons ct. sw., was taken to Children's Hospital, where his condition was described as "not serious."

FIREMEN PLAY WATER OVER BURNING PAPER ROLLS STACKED IN FIELD IN NEWTON VILLAGE, MD.

Blaze Discovered By Clerk; Cigarette Reported Found on Charred Mattress

A woman guest at the Park House Hotel, 909 13th st. nw., died last night in a fire apparently caused by a cigarette.

The woman, who had registered as Mrs. Lola V. Wells of Wilmington, Del., was said to be about 35 years of age. She died of suffocation, according to Deputy Coroner Richard M. Rosenberg, who pronounced her dead at 8:20 p.m.

The fire was discovered by William H. West, night clerk, who saw smoke pouring from under the door. He said he dragged Mrs. Wells out of the room, where a cigarette was later found on the charred mattress.

Six pieces of apparatus responded. The hotel is operated by Ara Shirazian.

Salvage Paper Blaze Fought Nearly 4 Hours

Nine Prince Georges County fire companies battles nearly four hours yesterday to subdue a stubborn blaze in a paper salvage yard next to the Metropolitan Cinder Block Co. at 3400 Kenilworth ave. in Newton Village.

The flames destroyed large quantities of salvage paper stacked in rolls over an area of nearly an acre. For a brief time the fire threatened to spread to the plant of the Southern Oxygen Co. nearby

Firemen said the flames swept from the salvage yard through a field, but were halted about 500 feet from the oxygen company property.

Firemen from Bladensburg, Cottage City and Tuxedo said they arrived to find the stack of paper rolls a "blazing inferno," and immediately sent in a second alarm.

Three more companies had just arrived on the scene when it was decided to call still more aid. The third alarm was sent out.

The paper was stored on the lot by the Penn Paper Co. of 1516 Eckington pl. nw., which rented the property from the cinder block concern. Firemen said they understood the salvage value of the paper was about $2.50 a roll, but they had no immediate estimate of damage.

The fire disrupted rush-hour traffic on River Road nearly two miles away. To prevent traffic from interfering with fire-fighting activities, Prince Georges County police rerouted all traffic away from River Road, which runs from Defense hwy. to Kenilworth ave.

Mother and Baby Escape Cabin John Trailer Fire

A family reunion in Cabin John last night ended in near tragedy when fire swept a trailer occupied by a 17-year-old mother and her infant daughter.

The fire broke out in the trailer, in the rear of the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sipes on 6th st., a block south of the 7800 block of MacArthur blvd., about 7 p. m. Their daughter, Mrs. Mary Lou Dixon was said to have accidentally knocked a bottle of turpentine off a shelf onto a kerosene stove.

Mrs. Dixon's sister, Mrs. Gloria Mae Hunter, 22, of Glen rd., Rockville, Md., who was en route from the house to the trailer, saw the fire and screamed, bringing Mrs. Sipes from the house.

As Mrs. Hunter entered the trailer door, Mrs. Dixon handed her 6-month-old baby, Darlene Dixon, out of the trailer window to Mrs. Sipes and then climbed out herself

Mrs. Hunter, seeing them escape, fled the trailer, but suffered burns. She was admitted to Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, where it was said she had first and some second degree burns.

Fireman Burned Fighting Park Rd. Apartment Blaze

Fire Department Pvt. R. S. Wilson, Engine Company 21, received minor burns of the neck and ears shortly after 4 p.m. yesterday while fighting a blaze in an apartment at 1701 Park rd. nw.

The fire, which drove about 40 persons to the street, started in the kitchen of a second-floor unit and spread to a portion of the third floor of the 4-story building. Damage was minor and the flames were speedily brought under control.

Affected by smoke, LeRoy Burnell, 57, occupant of an adjoining apartment, was assisted to the street by neighbors and given first-aid treatment.

The District Fire Board reported yesterday that 23 fire calls were received between 4 p. m. and midnight with only five of them false.

Young Wife Identified in 2 Holdups

A 19-year-old girl was identified yesterday by victims of two recent holdups as the "gun moll" who, unaided, tried to rob them.

The girl Mrs. Eloise C. Shelton, 1002 Mississippi ave. se., who was charged with attempted robbery, was arrested by police of the Eleventh Precinct Thursday on a warrant sworn out by her husband, James, charging she had threatened him.

Detective Talmadge Denton, who made the arrest, thought he recognized the girl as fitting the description of the gun-woman who had tried to hold up Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. McCovick, 22 Chesapeake st. se., Saturday night near their home.

McCovick said he tossed his wallet to the ground when the girl ordered him to, but his wife's screams scared her away, without the wallet. Pvt. M. F. Wesley, who was nearby, saw the girl running, but was unable to catch her.

Denton checked with Wesley after he had arrested Mrs. Shelton, and as a result, she was placed in the lineup. She was identified by Mr. and Mrs. McCovick and also by William Brown, cab driver, 4900 Alabama ave. se., as the girl who tried to hold him up recently.

Brown said she was a passenger in his cab March 21 at 12th and Congress sts. se. when she produced a gun and attempted to hold him up. When he scuffled with her, he said, she jumped out of the cab and ran away.

Mrs. Shelton was held under $1,000 bond yesterday by Judge Aubrey B. Fennell of Municipal Court for the grand jury.

Three Fares Here Force Cabbie to Drive to Richmond

By The Associated Press

A Washington Taxicab driver was forced into an 80-mile ride at gunpoint last night by some Washington-Fort Belvoir fares who robbed him and then made him drive to Richmond.

The operator, Walter Hutcherson, 23, of 5614 1st st. nw., told Richmond police he took three men, one of them an Army private, into Richmond and was ordered to drop them off at two separate addresses.

Police nabbed the soldier, who gave his name as Pvt. Roy L. Palmer, 31, stationed at Fort Belvoir, shortly after the driver reported the robbery and forced drive to Richmond police.

The driver told police he picked up the trio at about 3:30 p. m. and took them to Fort Belvoir. In the vicinity of the Army camp, one of the group pulled out a pistol, robbed him of $6 and his watch, and then directed him to head for Richmond, Hutcherson said.

Palmer is being held as a fugitive from Fairfax County, Richmond police said.

Police Board Finds Felber Not Guilty of Drunk Charge

A police trial board yesterday found Detective Sergt. Richard J. Felber not guilty of a charge that he was under the influence of alcohol so as to be unfit for police duties early March 27.

The board had heard seven witnesses testify that Sergeant Felber was not under the influence, while five others testified that he was. Among them were three police officers on each side.

The charge grew out of an altercation at the Mayflower Hotel between Sergeant Felber and two newspaper photographers, Eugene Jones of The Washington Post and his brother, Charles, of the Times-Herald.

The board ruled out any testimony about what occurred at the Mayflower because the charge drawn by the Police Department specified that the alleged offense took place at about 4:20 a. m. in the Third Precinct station house. The time was more than two hours after the altercation.

An array of high police officers, including Maj. Robert J. Barrett, superintendent; four inspectors and three captains, was marshaled by the defense as character witnesses for Sergeant Felber.

Felber, who was off duty and in evening clothes at the time of the incident, was placed under suspension at the precinct station by Assistant Police Supt. Oscar J. Letterman, who testified yesterday:

"Yes, I would say from my own observation and from the statements of others that . . . he was under the influence of alcoholic beverages to the extent that he was unfit for police service; otherwise I wouldn't have suspended him."

Felber's suspension was lifted four days later. Major Barrett said the action was taken because the two photographers had not pressed charges.

Inspector Letterman said he was called to the Third Precinct Station by Lieut. John E. Winters of the precinct and declared Felber smelled of liquor and was not his normal self as regards his speech, expression and general actions. Similar testimony was given by Lieutenant Winters and Sergt. Horace S. Childress.

Eugene Jones also said he believed Felber was under the influence of alcohol. He testified he had seen the sergeant drink water and use water from the cooler on his face twice at the precinct station. James R. O'Donnell, Health Department ambulance driver, gave similar testimony.

Those testifying that Felber was not under the influence at the station house included Detective Sergt. William L. Sparshott, Lieut. Otto B. Fuss and Lieut. Roy Blick.

James B. Graham, reporter for The Washington Post, told the board he was not close enough to Felber in the station house to state whether he was under the influence.

Four others stated that Felber was not drunk.

They were William H. Cade of 300 2d st. ne., Joseph P. Duncan of 400 9th st. no., and Andrew T. Jarboe of 2027 Minnesota ave. se., who said they were friends and lodge brothers of the defendant, and Mrs. Eleanor White of 3510 New Hampshire ave. nw., who said she was a friend of his.

All said they smelled no liquor on his breath and he appeared calm and normal, they testified.

The trial board was composed of Inspector William J. Cunningham, Capt. Basil F. McAllister of the Tenth Precinct, and Capt. Paul L. Barnes of the Fourth Precinct.

The board postponed until next Friday a hearing in the case of Pvt. Talbert Dowling of the Eleventh Precinct, charged with neglect of duty, disobedience of orders and failure to make a proper report of an assault.

Baby Born After Death Of Mother

A 4½-pound infant, born a few minutes after her mother died en route to Gallinger Hospital, was alive yesterday with a fair chance of survival because of the alertness of an ambulance physician.

The child, daughter of Charles Lyons and Mrs. Mary M. Lyons of 231 3d st. se., was delivered early yesterday, 16 minutes after a Health Department ambulance arrived at Gallinger with the dead mother.

Dr. John Lucas ambulance physician, after examining Mrs. Lyons at her home, called the hospital and directed preparations be made for a caesarian delivery.

The ambulance arrived at Gallinger at 5:22 a.m. and the baby was delivered by Dr. Morgan Flaherty at 5:38 a.m.

Last night, Dr. Alvin R. Sweeney, superintendent at Gallinger, said the baby was in an incubator in fair condition and stronger than at birth. He praised the action of Dr. Lucas, declaring that his foresight "saved valuable time and made it possible to save this baby's life."

Visitor Beaten, Robbed of Cash And Even Shoes

Robert Stebbing, 20, of 1403 Rosewick ave., Baltimore, told police he was beaten and robbed of $27, a suit jacket, an imitation diamond ring, a wrist watch and the shoes off his feet early yesterday.

Stebbing said he was standing at New Jersey ave. and L st. nw., at 3 a. m., after hitchhiking from Baltimore, when one of two men beat him in the face and the other dragged him into an alley.

Mrs. Lillian Cohen, 60, wife of Meyer Cohen, proprietor of a clothing store at 926 1st st. nw., told police a man pushed her to the floor and grabbed $9 from the cash register of the store about 10:30 a. m. yesterday. When she shouted, the bandit fled.

Citizen Group Again Urges Legal Lottery

Washingtonians Cite Jury Probe as Sign of Widespread Gambling

The Washingtonians last night adopted a resolution favoring a legal lottery in the District after pointing out that the need for such action has been indicated by recent grnd jury disclosure of widespread gambling here.

The resolution, voted at the meeting held at the Highlands Apartment, Connecticut ave. and California st. nw., stated that "morals cannot be legislated into human beings." The group had in the past gone on record in favor of a lottery.

The decision of Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett and Commissioner John Russell Young to notify speeding offenders of their right to appeal to the Board of Revocation and Restoration of Licenses was indorsed by the body.

In other business, the group urged restoration to the District budget of $290,000 cut from the Board of Public Welfare appropriation; appointed a committee to study the proposal of Judge Barse for the appointment of a public defender, and urged the State Department to obtain the release of two American soldiers held in Czechoslovakia.

Mrs. Lowe Is Indorsed For Board of Education

The Pleasant Plains Civic Association, at its regular meeting in Monroe School, Columbia rd. and Georgia ave. nw., last night indorsed Mrs. C. D. Lowe as a candidate to fill the Board of Education vacancy. The association cited Mrs. Lowe's "service to the community in Parent-Teacher Association, Tuberculosis Association and League of Women Voters work," and said she "would be a most competent member of the board."

The association also recommended that the Board of Education "transfer Central High School to serve Nego high school youth in a temporary capacity," because of the "alarming overcrowding of Negro high schools, and in view of the fact that the appropriation for the proposed Spingarn High School has been eliminated from the budget."

The association commended the Connecticut Avenue Citizens Association for its recent stand "on the need for better race relations in the District."

Marine Veteran Who Tried Theft Faces Eviction

Clayton D. Whidden, Marine veteran who said he tried to break into an Alexandria grocery store March 15 because his family was hungry, now faces eviction any day from his home.

Ten days ago Miss Helen Calvert, the owner of Whidden's $100-a-month apartment at 411 E. Raymond ave., Alexandria, was awarded possession for Whidden's failure to pay rent. The 10-day period of grace before she could obtain a writ of possession expired yesterday.

Meanwhile, a court hearing for the 24-year-old father of three on a charge of attempted housebreaking was continued to April 12 in Alexandria Police Court. Whidden is now employed by a Washington department store, where his employer said he is doing "very well."

D. C. Pleads For Funds To Avert Cut In Relief

Officials Testify For Increase in Appropriations at Senate Hearing

District Welfare Director John W. Tramburg yesterday appealed to the Senate District Appropriations Committee for funds to avert a further cut in relief grants on July 1.

Tramburg was one of a parade of District and Federal officials, and spokesmen for Washington groups who testified for increased city appropriations in the final day of Senate hearings on the District budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.) chairman of the subcommittee, told the Commissioners he had been very much impressed with the budget testimony presented by them and by city department heads.

He indicated his subcommittee may begin next next week to decide what is to be done with the more than four million dollars in proposed additions to the House-approved budget bill totaling about 99 million dollars.

Along with the relief question, needs of health, police, sewer and other departments for more funds were emphasized in yesterday's hearing.

5 Per Cent Cut Effective May 1

Tramburg pointed out a new 5 per cent cut in relief grants had been ordered the day before, effective May 1, on top of a 7 per cent cut last fall. He urged restoration of about $290,000 in relief funds cut by the House from the budget bill. Unless the money is restored, he said, a further cut of 9 or 10 per cent in relief levels would have to be made in July.

Even with return of the funds, Tramburg said, further increases in the number of relief cases would have to be handled by making further cuts in grants.

Maj. Robert J. Barrett, superintendent of police, asked for return to the money bill of $146,146. The amount includes money for starting conversion of the police radio system from FM to AM, in line with Federal Communications Commission rulings. Also included as money for filling 18 positions, and for replacing some 75 vehicles.

District Auditor A. R. Pilkerton called for adding $297,200 for police and firemen's pensions, and said that figure would have to be increased if District pay raises are granted. The pay raises also affect pensions.

Seek $694,770 More

District Health Officer George C. Ruhland, with backing of city hospital officials, testified for Health Department increases totaling $694,770.

Ellwood Johnson, superintendent of sewers, urged an additional $778,000 for sewer construction.

Spokesmen for Washington groups, testifying after the officials, generally indorsed the requests for more welfare, school and health funds.

Horace T. Wilson and M. S. Bush, speaking for the Armstrong P-TA and alumni, urged $500,000 for staring a new Armstrong High School.

Mrs. Leslie B. Wright of the Northwest Council of Citizens Associations, protested to the subcommittee that the National Capital Park and Planning Commission has bought some land tracts in Washington that are not needed for recreation. She said, too, that the School Board could save in construction by better utilization of available buildings.

Ellis Haworth, chemistry professor at Wilson Teachers College, and Langston F. Booth, chemistry professor at Miner Teachers College, joined in urging that $8000 be granted to promote qualified personnel to professional rank.

Mrs. Florence E. Welch, president of the association for education of physically handcapped children, urged more funds for the shut-in teaching program. A number of other witnesses filed requests for increased funds for various agencies.

In Dark on Bids

Lights Deal Is Surprise To Council

Alexandria City Council found itself with a contract on its hands yesterday which not only was a surprise but also inadequate and apparently obtained without competitive bidding.

At a special meeting yesterday afternoon, the council learned the then City Manager Nicholas A. Colasanto had signed a $4828 contract with the local electrical firm of Eugene W. Zimmerman to increase the lighting from 54 to 104 15,000-watt floodlights.

But Zimmerman, before starting the work, recommended that to do an adequate job he should move existing poles and install 106 lights at a cost of $14,607.

Some councilmen also were critical of the fact that the contract apparently had not been offered for competitive bidding. City Attorney Joseph M. Pancoast advised them that whether bids should have been sought was irrelevant. The city has signed a contract, he said, and is bound by it unless it is changed or ended by mutual consent.

Each councilman indicated he would willingly vote for the $14,607 job if funds can be found. The finance committee was directed to make a search for available funds and report at the regular council meeting April 12.

Illegitimate Child Support Bill Backed

The Senate District Committee yesterday approved a bill to tighten District laws for insuring financial support of illegitimate children.

An aim of the bill is to force fathers of children sired out of wedlock to pay more of the costs of their offspring, and to reduce the charges for illegitimate children now carried by public agencies.

The committee also formally approved for presentation to the Senate the revised sales tax and home rule bills which the same committee recommended earlier in the week.

In another move the Commissioners yesterday asked Congress to enact three new bills. They would:

1. Give new authority to suspend or revoke alcoholic beverage licenses when their holders have been convicted of a felony.

2. Amend the District Life Insurance Act to provide minimum standards for policies of industrial insurance, and make other changes. One part of the bill would prohibit practices permitting policyholders of industrial life insurance to pay indefinitely on policies that were not in force. It would also require proper receipts for policy loan holders.

3. Would enlarge the field of group life insurance in the District to make it comparable with most States. It would also set standard provisions to be written into group policies.

Suit Charges Shirlington Profit-Milking

Joseph Cherner and James C. Robertson were accused in a civil suit yesterday of milking profits from the Shirlington Corp., which operates the $1,800,000 Shirlington Business Center in nearby Virginia.

Cherner is a well-known local auto dealer and Robertson is an attorney.

A suit filed yesterday in District Court by two disgruntled minority stockholders says Cherner "caused" the directors of the corporation to name him general manager in 1944, a job which allegedly netted him more than $50,000 last year on a commission basis.

The suit further says Cherner and Robertson also "caused" fees of about $12,000 a year to be paid to the latter by the corporation in 1947 and 1948 as general counsel.

Complainants Are Brothers

The minority stockholders, who are brothers, are Philip Goldstein of 2730 Wisconsin ave. nw., and Harry D. Goldstein of 1915 Kalorama rd. nw.

Their suit names five other directors of the corporation in addition to Cherner and Robertson.

Cherner and Robertson, the suit charges, control and vote 76 per cent of the corporation stock and thus "control and dominate" the board of directors.

They have, the suit adds, administered the corporation "for their private benefit."

For Term of 10 Years

The suit says the Cherner-dominated board of directors named the auto dealer general manager of the corporation property at a meeting in February, 1944, for a term of 10 years and stipulated he would receive 15 per cent of the gross rentals collected each year.

In 1947, the plaintiffs contend, the corporation collected rental income totaling $233,500 and Cherner collected compensation of $35,025. In 1948, they further claim, he received more than $50,000.

The Goldsteins say that the agreement by which Cherner collects 15 per cent of the rentals is a "device" which makes it impossible for any dividends to be paid on the stock of the corporation.

In their suit they ask District Court to determine the proper compensation due Cherner and Robertson and to order the defendants to return to the corporation all money received in excess of proper compensation in the past.

D. C. Publishers, Pressmen Meet Again Today

Representatives of pressmen and publishers of Washington's four newspapers were scheduled to meet again at 10 a. m. today in hopes of settling a deadlock over contract negotiations.

Three separate conferences yesterday, lasting more than eight hours, produced only that announcement.

A. J. Deandrade, one of three international vice presidents of the AFL Pressmen's Union participating in the talks, said there was no comment, except that "the fact we will continue negotiations speaks for itself."

Peyton R. Evans, representing publishers, withheld comment until completion of conferences.

The pressmen failed to appear for work over a 25-hour period this week, forcing all four papers to suspend publication on Wednesday.

The union seeks increased wages, shorter working hours, added manpower on its crews, and other benefits.

For Care Instructions Of Hardwood Floors

Can you instruct me on the care of oak hardwood floors? The floors in our house were beautiful when we moved in, but have since been marred by heel marks, the moving of furniture and the usual wear and tear on an uncovered floor. How should they be cleaned? How often? How to wax them so that a 16-month-old baby won't slip and fall? B. K. P.

When floors become badly marked and soiled, it is necessary to go over them with a good solvent such as varsol. This will remove all of the wax which is on the floor and with it the embedded soil. Any heel marks which are not removed this way can usually be wiped up by rubbing hard with a cleaning wax on a cloth. If this doesn't remove them, then it will be necessary to scour them off with steel wool or sand paper. Rub with the grain of the wood.

With the floor entirely clean, apply several thin layers of wax, allowing each layer to dry for 20 to 30 minutes and buffing well before applying the next. You will have a harder finish if you will rent an electric buffer for the polishing. The best way to protect the floor against future soil and stains is to always keep a good protective coat of wax on it. After applying three or four coats at the initial session, it is wise to renew the wax at the heavy traffic spots whenever it shows signs of wear. This can be done by first removing the soil by wiping with a cleaning wax which is a semi-liquid. This removes the soil without removing the entire wax coatings as washing or using varsol does. When clean, apply paste wax and polish. By touching up the heavy wear areas once a month, it will probably only be necessary to completely wax the floor twice a year. During this semiyearly waxing do not remove all the old wax layer by washing or using varsol unless the floor is too soiled to wax over it. This way you will build up a better protective coating.

Applying wax thinly, and buffing to a hard finish with an electric buffer should give you a floor which is not slippery. However, if your baby still has trouble standing on it, I suggest you put strips of adhesive on the soles of her shoes to eliminate slipping.

To H. M. A.—I'm sorry we cannot answer beauty questions in this column.

My furniture needs reupholstering. As I have five preschool age sons, I want to get the strongest material possible. Can you tell me if there is any upholstering material made from nylon? If there isn't any from nylon, what would be the best material to use? H. R.

I have not been able to find a store which sells nylon upholstery fabric. Of the fabrics now on the market, the best wearing ones are the firmly woven cottons and woolens. For the money, a cotton tapestry will give you the best wear because it is less subject to snags and is mothproof. Other satisfactory upholstery fabrics are good grades of linen, denim and corduroy.

Have you considered covering your furniture with slip covers instead of having it upholstered? With five young boys and the inevitable sticky fingers and muddy shoes—both of which will be on your furniture—it seems to me it would be a comfort to you to have your furniture covered with removable and washable covers. For the cost of upholstering, you could possibly have two sets of slip covers, making it easy to have a clean one at all times. Since they will receive such hard wear and frequent washings, it will be economy to buy only the best fabric for the covers—fabrics which are firmly woven, guaranteed against fading and sanforized to avoid shrinkage. You could use denim, chintz or cretonnes. Select colors which are not too light and materials which have some figure, so do not show spots as readily as plain materials. Also, have the slip covers made with a minimum of pleats to shorten ironing time. If cotton slip covers are made to fit snugly, they can be washed, dried to just damp and with very little ironing returned to the furniture. When the covers are not to be completely ironed, they will look better if they are not starched when washed.

WHEN the music box plays "Here Comes the Bride," this little wide-eyed doll will be all set to march down the aisle. She's in the height of fashion, wearing a white satin gown, cut on bouffant lines. Her tulle veil is held with a Mary-Queen-of-Scots cap, trimmed with seed pearls, and she carries a nosegay, tied with white satin streamers

SHE was "Only a Bird In a Gilded Cage," but she attracted a continuous audience all day yesterday, as she sang, whistled, fluttered her tail feathers, and gently flapped her wings. A European import, this dainty mechanical canary does everything but fly out of her cage, and she manages all this with the help of a delicate gadget hidden in the base of her gilt home

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne

Even though there are no expert naturalists in your family, everyone can have a lot of fun these spring months watching things develop. Here are a couple of simple ideas that may start some of the family on the way to being enthusiastic naturalists.

Moth and butterfly cocoons often can be picked off leafless trees by one with an observant eye. If the small twigs on which they are fastened are hung from the top of a wire cage one may expect that the magic of spring will bring from the ugly cases beautifully colored insects. Few things are more exciting to children than to see these changes taking place.

Another fascinating experience for children is to watch frogs' eggs change to tadpoles and the tadpoles gradually lose their tails, grow legs and finally become frogs. There are few ponds that fail to have frogs in them. Exploration in the early spring will yield either the jelly-like masses of eggs or later developing tadpoles. These may be kept in water-filled fruit jars with a minimum of mess and a maximum of enjoyment.

5 Buses Searched For Safe Crackers

Five Baltimore-bound buses were searched by Washington and Maryland police yesterday, following a "tip" that three safe crackers, one of them armed, were en route to Baltimore with $12,000 in loot.

Scout cars and patrol wagons converged on New York ave. ne., as the Washington police radio dispatcher broadcast a general lookout for the trio, reported to have boarded a Greyhound bus at the terminal, 11th and New York ave, nw.

Two of the buses were stopped at New York and Florida aves. ne., a third at New York ave. and Fenwick st. ne. and another at New York ave. and North Capitol st.

Police learned that still another bus had preceded the four and notified Maryland police. It was stopped and searched in College Park, Md.

Allowed to Proceed

The buses were allowed to proceed after police found none of the passengers answered the description of the three men they sought.

A second false "tip" sent police scurrying to the vicinity of the Ebbitt Hotel, 10th and H sts. nw., about 3 p. m. to trap two of the so-called safe crackers. Police found only two drunks.

A teletype lookout, flashed later from Washington Police Headquarters, said the three men are wanted for questioning in several safe robberies and housebreakings in the District and in Arlington.

Arlington police reported that a safe in the Virginia Hardware Co., 2016 N. Moore st., was pried open with spikes sometime early yesterday after thieves entered the store by jimmying the back door. Harry Goldman, owner, said $5500 was missing from the safe.

Safe Opened in Ice Box

A safe in the Florida Fruit & Vegetable Co., 1276 5th st. ne., was pried open with a chisel, screw driver and hammer, and $600 was taken, Irving Honikman, owner, reported. Police said thieves had moved the safe into the ice box to open it.

The "tipster" reporting the flight of the trio, did not specify where the men got all of the $12,000. Police were given the following description of the men, one of whom was supposed to be carrying a .32-caliber revolver:

Number one is about 23 years old, of slender build, wearing a brown felt hat, brown suede shoes, green sport shirt and checkered slacks; number two is about 18, of heavy build, wearing a brown sport jacket and blue dungarees; number three is about 19, of slender build, wearing a gray beaver hat, blue trousers and maroon shirt.

'Lost Birthright'

Zone Appeal Loser Pickets Courthouse

Twice turned down in attempts to win a rezoning, Alfred H. Jennings of Takoma Park, Md., yesterday took to picketing the Montgomery County Court House.

Parading back and forth before the courthouse in Rockville, Jennings, 54, who was born in South Africa, had numerous things to say about "bureaucrats."

"The same thing that happened in Germany and Italy is happening here," he said angrily. "A few people get in power and you have a dictatorship."

Hung around his neck was a large placard that proclaimed:

"Zoning laws are undemocratic and should be changed. We have lost our birthright; wake up ye people."

Jennings lives at 903 Flower ave. The 2-acre plot he owns and wants rezoned for commercial use is at 11121 Old Bladensburg rd., Silver Spring. He said he had twice sought unsuccessfully to have it rezoned so he could continue renting it to a firm that develops aerial photographs.

His efforts first met defeat at the hands of the former county commissioners. The second rebuff came from the new county council.

Nomination A Surprise, Says Early

Norfolk, Va., April 8 (AP).—Stephen T. Early said today his nomination by President Truman as Undersecretary of Defense "came to me as a surprise."

He added, however, that "I had 24 hours forwarning that something might be done."

"Mrs. Early didn't know it and my office didn't know it," Early told newsmen on his return to Norfolk aboard the carrier Midway from which he and 60 other prominent civilians witnessed naval task force exercises off the Virginia Capes.

He was notified of the appointment by radio while the Midway was some 50 miles off the capes yesterday, Early said. He declined to comment further upon the appointment "until it is confirmed."

"It is incumbent upon one in my present situation to wait until later to make a statement," he added.

Early and the other civilians participating in the civilian orientation conference sponsored by the Secretary of Defense disembarked from the ships of the Task Force at the Norfolk Naval Base. They left by plane almost immediately for Eglin Field, Fla., to continue their inspection of military establishments.

Early said he expects to return to Washington "the middle of next week." He is expected to have his first conference with Secretary Louis Johnson Monday at Fort Benning, Ga.

New Trial Denied In Attack on Girl

A motion for a new trial by David Allen Hamlet, 28-year-old filling station attendant convicted of carnal knowledge on an 8-year-old Silver Spring, Md., girl, was denied yesterday in Montgomery County Circuit Court.

Truman Urges War Chest for 1950 Elections

President Truman last night joined Democratic leaders in urging the building of a war chest for the 1950 congressional campaign, saying "that election must be won" by the Democrats.

Mr. Truman spoke at a meeting of the executive committee which conducted the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinners for the Democratic Party.

Senator J. Howard McGrath (R. I.), Democratic National Chairman, forecast that the party would have a one-million-dollar fund for the 1950 congressional races.

Mr. Truman said he never before participated in a campaign in which the Democrats did not "have a deficit to start with and a deficit to end with."

Consequently, he said, he was cheered by the enthusiastic financial reports which he heard at the buffet supper.

Mr. Truman asserted that the Administration's program was progressing "successfully and satisfactorily."

Middle East Said to Resent U. S. and U. N.

Philadelphia, April 8 (AP).—The United States and the United Nations "stand in greater disrepute and condemnation" in the Middle East than anywhere in the world, Kermit Roosevelt said today.

The grandson of the late President Theodore Rosevelt spoke at the opening of the fifty-second annual two-day meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

The general topic of the conference, attended by nearly 1000 outstanding educators and scientists from over the world, is "World Government: Why? When? How?"

Roosevelt, who served with the State Department and the United States Army in the Middle East during 1943 and 1944, said:

"People in the Middle East are convinced that the United Nations, under the aggressive leadership of the United States, has assisted a new form of foreign intervention—European Zionism—in their lands, and is bringing not peace but a sword."

He called the Middle East a "part of what appears to be a newly developing bloc of countries stretching from the Atlantic Coast of Africa to Singapore."

Roosevelt declared the bloc is a "tentative grand alliance," based upon certain things these peoples think they have in common:

1. "Tinted skin—They are not color-conscious except as they have been made so by the realization that the 'white' races regard them as different—and inferior.

2. "Religious—Many of them are Moslems, but most of those who are not have at least this in common with the Moslems, they are not Christians.

3. "Foreign expoitation—All of these countries have been to a greater or lesser extent under foreign domination within the near past.

4. "Sense of technological inadequacy."

All Safe Aboard Schooner

Norfolk, Va., April 8 (AP).—The Coast Guard said tonight a schooner found at anchor in the British West Indies definitely is the Keewatin, unreported since she sailed from the Bahamas April 1 for Virginia.

A family of four aboard the craft is "alive and safe," the Coast Guard said it had learned from a message radioed by the pilot of a rescue amphibian plane. The plane landed beside the Keewatin at Pensacola Key.

The rescue plane's message identified Donald Parrot, of Salem, Mass., his wife and two young sons as aboard the Keewatin.

The Coast Guard called off a search that began when a tanker reported sighting an unmanned schooner east of Charleston, S. C., Tuesday morning.

The master of the schooner Windfall arrived at Swansboro, N. C., today and said his vessel was the one the tanker had sighted. Capt. W. C. Norton of Newport, R. I., said all hands were seasick and below decks.

Archbishop O'Boyle To Receive Chalice

The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, will be given a memorial chalice at the annual commemorative service of the District of Columbia Chapter, Knights of Columbus, at 8:15 p. m. Sunday at 918 10th st. nw. Attendance of the service will be limited to members.

The Very Rev. Neil J. Gargan, S.J., rector of St. Aloysius Church and president of Gonzaga High School, will deliver the eulogy.

Phone Workers' Committee Ruled Autonomous by NLRB

The National Labor Relations Board yesterday ruled unanimously that the CIO's Telephone Workers Organizing Committee is an autonomous group entitled to bring cases before the board.

A union spokesman hailed the ruling, declaring the question was one of "life or death" for the group. He said the union now can go ahead with its current organizing campaign. If the union had lost the ruling, it would have been barred from NLRB aid because top CIO officials have not signed Taft-Hartley non-Communist oaths.

The union says it represents about 100,000 phone industry workers. A referendum now being conducted by the independent Communications Workers of America on whether to join TWOC, if it favors the CIO, would treble TWOC bargaining representation.

One part of yesterday's NLRB ruling held that some 50 employes of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Virginia shall be represented by CWA. TWOC had asked to be the bargaining agent for the employes, located in Accomack and Northampton Counties in Virginia and on the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula.

'Colorado' Looks At Vet Problem

By Richard L. Coe

ONE OF THE GAMBITS of the current Western cycle is the Maladjusted Veteran. The movie writers are fond of telling us that the problems of the vets of the Civil War and World War II have a deal in common.

This idea is the foundation of "The Man From Colorado," now at the Warner. In it you get the Colonel Who Cannot Forget the Lust to Kill, the Enlisted Men Who Still Resent Their Officers, the Veterans Who Have Lost Their Property to Men Who Stayed Home and the Girl Who Marries the Colonel When She Should Have Wed the Captain. All this plus hosses and the Great Open Spaces.

Unfortunately, I've been unable to attend any reunions of the 316th Fighter Squadron or Stars and Stripes personnel, but from scattered reports I judge my old Army friends are making out okay in civilian life, no murder lust, no broken homes, no stolen gold mines. However, there are doubtless some tough cases, as the daily press attests, and I hope they won't have to wait 84 years to be dramatized by some future sympathetic Hollywood.

The Colonel Who Cannot Forget the Lust to Kill is played, surprise, surprise, by the beamish Glenn Ford, than whose there is no more guileless phiz in Hollywood.

To overcome his naturally friendly expression (which constantly reminds me of my managing editor's), Columbia has sprinkled his locks with talc and ordered him to smolder with repressed Lust every instant, instructions so punctiliously obeyed from the outset that one marvels the good citizens of Colorado let him loose. Glenn is obviously as pent up as Charles Laughton's Cappy Bligh.

Ray for Bill!

In gratitude for his wartime zeal, Glenn is made judge of the county and appoints his buddy, William Holden, as marshal. Bill, an upright type, is saddened but acquiescent when Judge Glenn upholds the letter of the law by allowing Ray Collins and the Gold Star Mining Co. to keep the land they've snatched from the enlisted men while the latter were defending their country. But Glenn eventually goes too far and Bill heads for the hills.

Love, of course, brings all this to a head when Glenn realizes that wife Ellen Drew thinks too highly of Bill. Every so often he confides his tumultuous inner feelings to his diary, a little book which propels him finally to his downfall under a burning wall, spectacular, expensive, eye-filling finale.

Apart from an insistent assumption by the story writers that the enlisted men are a meek bunch of sad sacks and that it takes former officers to set them off, one way or another, in civilian life, there's nothing in "The Man From Colorado" that hasn't been tackled numberless times before in such films. It's good to see Holden getting top screen parts again, for he's a credible actor. But Ford is hardly likely as the sadistic diary-writing colonel. The Technicolor's grand.

"THE MAN FROM COLORADO." Columbia release produced by Jules Schermer. Screen play by Robert D. Armstrong and Ben Maddow from a story by Borden Chase. Photographed in Technicolor by William Snyder. Music by Jean Louis. Directed by Henry Levin. At the Warner.

THE CAPITOL'S STAGE show was squeezed out of Orval Hopkins' review yesterday, so let's pick it up now. He wrote:

"Donald Richards, who has played in the Broadway musicals, 'Finian's Rainbow' and 'Along Fifth Avenue,' tops the bill. He has one of those cayernous, rolling baritones which he just stands up and lets go. He is a pleasure to hear. Second spot I'd give to the Peiro Brothers, two funny and very clever Argentine jugglers. These boys have a couple of hat tricks I thoroughly enjoyed. Tommy Hanlon has some jokes and the Albins offer comedy dancing.

"Sam Jack Kaufman has his band up on the big stage, where all the boys look fine. Kay DeWitt sings 'Stormy Weather' very nicely, in honor, I assume, of spring."

"SOUTH PACIFIC" got the rave notices in New York it did in Boston, The Times' Brooks Atkinson finding it "as lively, warm, fresh and beautiful as we had all hoped it would be." . . . The newest Rodgers-Hammerstein triumph is at the Majestic, tickets are at a premium for months in advance and another "Oklahoma!" seems launched.

TONIGHT brings the finals of the twenty-first One-Act Play Tournament, sponsored by the District Recreation Department . . . In the finals will be the Mount Vernon Players, the Arts Club, the Montgomery Players and the Alexandria Little Theater . . . By a chance, the last three groups were all on Thursday night's bill, last of four preliminary evenings . . . The curtain rises at 8:15 in Roosevelt Auditorium, 13th and Allison sts. nw. . . . Downtown ticket office in Lubar's, 1300 G st.

LARRY SUNBROCK'S "Texas Rodeo and Thrill Circus" will open an eight-day stay at the National Guard Armory Easter Sunday, with 90 cowgirls and cowboys competing for $10,000 in prize money . . . Tickets downtown at Liggett's, 13th and F.

Easter Sales Here in Week Rise Sharply

By S. Oliver Goodman

In one swoop, Easter sales of Washington department stores have picked up the volume lost by a calendar quirk.

This was indicated last night in a Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond report showing that local store sales in the week ended April 2 soared 26 per cent over the same 1948 period.

For the four weeks ended April 2 Washington retail volume was exactly even with the like 1948 period.

Comparisons with a year ago have suffered because of the early 1948 Easter. Now, 1949 Easter sales are being compared with last year's post-Easter clearances.

With reports of two pre-Faster weeks still to come, local merchants now are confident that March-April business this year will go ahead of the similar period last year. Most retailers agree that bargains and promotions are playing a major part in stimulating 1949 spring shopping.

Said one official of a large local department store: "We thought at the beginning of March we would have a hard time maintaining our last year's record. But we'll definitely show a 5 to 10 per cent increase in March-April this year over last. How come? Promotion! People this Easter want good merchandise at lower prices."

Elsewhere in the Fifth Federal Reserve District, good-sized increases in sales were reported for the week ended April 2, but not to the extent that Washington experienced. Baltimore showed a 12 per cent upturn and other cities in the region displayed an improvement of 10 per cent.

While Washington's sales for the four weeks ended April 2 showed no change from the same 1948 period, Baltimore's were down 13 per cent and other cities averaged 7 per cent lower.

When Donnie Shops

When Donnie dear goes shopping for . . . The groceries we need . . . He always does that errand with . . . A fair amount of speed . . . And when he brings the change to us . . . We know it is correct . . . Because he is an honest boy . . . Whose word we all respect . . . But sometimes when we name the things . . . That he is asked to buy . . . He stands there with a dreamy look . . . And makes a vague reply. . . Which means he is not listening and . . . When he comes back we find . . . He got the order all mixed up . . . In quantity or kind . . . Indeed we do appreciate . . . His going to the store . . . But now and then his memory . . . Could make a better score.

Don't Be "An Accident, Going Someplace To Happen"

The Travelers Insurance Companies have just put out an interesting booklet of last year's traffic statistics. It may help its readers to stay alive a bit longer.

The figures prove that accidents don't just happen to "the other guy," or under unusual circumstances. The average fatality involves an experienced driver and a good car which is traveling along a straight road, in good weather.

Hard to believe? Last year, 97.9 per cent of the drivers involved in fatal accidents had more than one year of driving experience. In 85.5 per cent of the cases, visibility was excellent; 78.7 per cent of the time, the street was dry. Snow and ice were present in only 5.8 per cent of the fatalities.

Turns, skids, backing up and sundry other variations accounted for only a minority of last year's deaths. In 80.8 per cent of the cases, the death car was going straight ahead. Only 6.9 per cent of the drivers could be called either "too young" or "too old"—93.1 per cent were over 18 and under 65.

And 94.2 per cent of the autos themselves were judged to be "in good condition." The biggest single factor of negligence, "bad brakes," explained only 1.9 per cent of the mishaps.

"Speeding" is the biggest single cause of traffic accidents. The figures show that speeders kill more people than do the next three categories of lawbreakers combined.

Among pedestrians, the biggest killer is jaywalking—crossing between intersections.

Only 2.8 per cent of the fatalities were recorded for pedestrians crossing with the light in their favor; but 32.4 per cent were killed while crossing in the middle of the block.

The greatest incidence of injuries comes during the evening rush hour (4 to 6 p. m.); the greatest number of deaths occurs along toward dusk (6 to 8 p. m.).

Motorists face similar traffic conditions during the morning rush hour, yet have fewer accidents because they're fresher then, and more alert. Besides, the human eye adjusts better from darkness to light than from light to darkness.

Nevertheless, Saturday and Sunday take a heavy toll of lives, all day and night long.

The moral, of course, is: Be careful. Last year 32,000 people were killed in traffic accidents in this country. And a staggering 1,470,000 were injured—some crippled for life.

So it's just common sense to "lose a minute and save a life; it may be your own."

STRIKE AFTERMATH

A boat without a rudder,
A ship without a sail;
A maid without a mister,
A shirt without a tail.
A mint without a julep,
A sea without a coast;
But the saddest sight you ever saw
Was me—without The Post.

Dear Bill:

Does the District of Columbia have an official flower, and if so—what is it?

Mrs. Betty Buckley,
3331 P st. nw.

Dear Mrs. Buckley:

Yep—the official flower of the District of Columbia is the American Beauty Rose.

Now maybe you can answer a question for me: What is the function of a State's official flower? What's it used for, and when? Bill.

VAGRANT THOUGHT

David A. Jernigan of 215 C st. se. wonders why "writing a legible hand" has become a lost art—and how our poor postal clerks manage to decipher some of our scrawls.

I CAN'T THINK OF A CAPTION FOR THIS ONE

Arthur Hockman of 5924 9th st. nw. and Herb Harris of 1121 N. Kensington st., Arlington, Va., think that the strangest classified ad they've seen lately is the one that offered for sale a "Plymouth, 1941, and two cemetery lots, all for $1000."

All in good working order?

COMEDIANS, J. G.

Our recent item about the Franconia (Va.) "Chatterbox" brings to mind my old friends on the "Falkland Times."

Humor among the younger set on Falkland lane is no different than it is down in Virginia, or any place else. Recent editions of the "Times" have included such gems as these:

"Guilty," said the judge. "I'll give you 10 days or 10 dollars." "If it's all the same to you," said the prisoner, "I'll take the 10 dollars, and thanks a lot."

I'll skip the one that starts "Where was the Declaration of Independence signed?" Everybody knows it was signed at the bottom.

Fresher material is available in the story of the magistrate who asks: "Do you really think he was trying to put your eye out?" The witness replies: "No, I think he was trying to put it further in."

However, my favorite is the dialogue between the bridge player and the expert. Having just butchered a hand, the player turns to the expert who has been watching and asks, "How would you have played that hand?" Murmurs the expert: "Under an assumed name."

At the conclusion of a rather skimpy edition published recently, the kids carried this Vagrant Thought:

"This is a short issue. Wonder if this baseball weather has anything to do with it?"

MEEOW!

(Overheard in the announcer's lounge at WTOP): "It's the greatest show of the century—the 19th Century."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Big Business Slowed Gruening

By Drew Pearson

Looking through my confidential list of lobbyists in the Eightieth Congress the other day, I noticed the name of "Cap" Lathrop, with the following notation: "Richest man in Alaska; blocked Alaskan Statehood to save taxes. His Senate stooge is Hugh Butler of Nebraska." The date of that entry in my files was June 5, 1948.

Butler

Today, April, 1949, Cap Lathrop is still the man who pulls the wires that make Senator Butler talk. He is also the man who has been dominating Alaskan matters before the Senate Interior Affairs Committee, which for nine months—up until this week—has blocked confirmation of Dr. Ernest Gruening, best Governor in Alaska's history, who, in a recent local election, got 80 per cent of Alaskan support.

Testifying against him before the Senate committee was Charlie Jones, a former United States marshal, who read a prepared statement as follows:

"The Governor entices people into his luxurious mansion and beguiles them with food and drink . . . Oh, hell," Charlie Jones interrupted himself, "that don't sound like me."

"I take it you didn't write it then?" queried Chairman O'Mahoney of Wyoming. "Who did?"

"Cap Lathrop's secretary," replied Jones.

Senator Anderson of New Mexico, former Secretary of Agriculture, took up the cross-examination.

"You say in this statement written for you," Anderson asked, "that the Governor beguiled people with food and drink. Just how would you say it in your own words?"

"I'd say," replied Charlie Jones, "that he gave me a drink."

Lathrop, who owns five Alaskan theaters and two newspapers, is griped because Gruening induced the Alaskan Legislature to impose a local income tax for the first time in history.

Another witness against Gruening, Robert Hoops, asked the Senate Committee's permission to prepare a statement.

"But," replied O'Mahoney, "we already have a statement from you. It was submitted by Mr. Lathrop."

Lathrop hadn't even given Hoops a chance to read his statement.

Meanwhile 41 Alaskans, vigorous proponents of Gruening, chartered their own special plane and flew to Washington. When they arrived, O'Mahoney gave only six of them five minutes each to testify—a total of 30 minutes. However, Gruening's opponents, much fewer in number, testified practically all day. Note—Finally Lathrop's tactics boomeranged and the Senate Committee voted unanimously for Governor Gruening's confirmation.

Merry-Go-Round

Bill Boyle, Truman's former secretary, now with the Democratic National Committee, became director of Colonial Airlines in 1945, collected a $15,000 legal fee in 1947. In 1948, Colonial got approval of CAB routes and a "back pay" increase in a mail contract . . . On Tuesday a caller at the White House was big-business mogul Floyd Odlum, chairman of Consolidated Vultee Aircraft . . . Also on Tuesday, the Air Force canceled orders for 43 Boeing B-54 bombers and ordered 36 more B-36's from Odlum's Consolidated Vultee . . . Louis Johnson, new Secretary of National Defense, was director of Consolidated Vultee . . . The Senate is planning to save lung power by installing a few well-placed microphones. This is chiefly for the benefit of Senate stenographers who have to take down what the solons say—not for other Senators who frequently don't care what their colleagues say. Hardest Senator to hear is Delaware's whispering John Williams.

Betty F. Perater of Wilmington, Del., a former Wac with good war record, was fired the other day from a small clerkship. She had refused to contribute $15 to a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner. So the Democrats fired her . . . Credit the Columbus, Ga., Ledger and the citizens of Columbus for unmasking the Ku Klux Klan. They passed an ordinance banning masks except on Christmas and Halloween characters . . . Colorado's Senator Ed Johnson got his toughest election opposition from the Denver Post. On Johnson's office wall today hangs a framed letter of Christmas greetings from Post Publisher Palmer Hoyt.

Benzedrine Dope

The manufacturers of benzedrine recently tried to sidetrack Congressman George Grant of Alabama and his bill to require a doctor's prescription for benzedrine.

Grant's bill followed a story in this column on how prison inmates, water-front bums and high school kids were using benzedrine inhalers for dope.

The manufacturers — Smith, Kline & French Laboratories of Philadelphia—promptly sent two officials to see Grant. They promised to stop selling benzedrine inhalers in Alabama, also showed how they were treating the benzedrine chemically so it couldn't be used for dope.

Stopping the sale of benzedrine inhalers in Alabama, Grant replied, wouldn't do the rest of the country any good. He is willing to see what the laboratories' chemists can do, but meanwhile, Grant is still pushing his bill.

In Capitol Cloakrooms

Ohio's silver-crested Senator Bricker hasn't given up his yen to run for President. He is maneuvering to run for Governor of Ohio in 1950 as a step toward the GOP nomination in 1952. (Bricker's recent stooging for the real estate lobby won't help him any) . . . It was Rudolph Hecht, president of the Mississippi Shipping Co., who arranged for Delesseps Morrison, Mayor of New Orleans, to visit Dictator Peron of Argentina. Mrs. Morrison came back with a big ruby from Senora Peron and the Mayor came back with a burning passion to have Truman visit Argentina . . . Bartley Crum, whom Truman sent to Palestine as one of the United States Commissioners, has joined the law firm of Franklin Roosevelt, jr., and Charlie Poletti, former Lieutenant Governor of New York . . . George Killion, head of the American President Steamship Lines, has been offered the chairmanship of the Federal Communications Commission . . . Arthur Goldberg, counsel for the CIO, was asked the other day whether he had seen Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin recently. "Haven't seen him for weeks," glibly replied Goldberg. "How come I saw him leave your office just 10 minutes ago?" Goldberg was asked. The CIO lawyer admitted that he had lied.
